HUERTA RULE IN NORTH AT LAST BROKEN

Leading Generals Join Forces With Villa, Rebel Leader at Juarez

NO PAY FOR TROOPS CAUSE

Governor General of Chihuahua Sends Peace Commission to Effect Surrender

JUAREZ, Mexico, Dec. 2. Seven generals of the Mexican regular army ready to surrender, and the backbone of the Huerta dictatorship on the border has been broken. A peace commission arrived in Juarez tonight bearing terms of surrender.

The peace commission was headed by Colon Hernandez, and came from Chihuahua, bearing a proclamation signed by Gen. Salvador Mercado, Chihuahua's military governor, and commander of the federal forces in all the north. The proclamation stated that the Huerta government was bankrupt and unable to pay its soldiers [illegible] simultaneous evacuation of the federal strongholds in the north [illegible] by the rebels to be the result of a concerted decision to abandon the whole of northern Mexico.

No Pay for Troops.

[illegible] were sent by [illegible] Hurtado to General [illegible] the rebel leader, through [illegible] civil gover[illegible] of Chihuahua [illegible] with [illegible] Villa to [illegible] the [illegible] of Chihuahua.

[illegible] Mercado's [illegible] in Chihuahua, it was [illegible] for the federal troops [illegible] the troops."

Generals Join.

Generals who have signified General Mercado their willingness to surrender, but who, nevertheless, are fleeing to the United States are:

Salvador Mercado, Gen. Pascual [illegible], Gen. Jose Ynez Salazar, Gen. [illegible] Caraveo, Gen. Jose Mansilla, [illegible] Orpinel, Gen. Manuel Lando.

The commission which was sent by Governor General Mercado's [illegible] proposed to General Villa [illegible] noncombatants who sought [illegible] fleeing to the border be permitted to go without being fired upon. [illegible] all federals, including 300 left on police duty in Chihuahua, be pardoned. It also asked [illegible] for federal officials, but it is [illegible] that the federal generals will [illegible] safety by crossing the border into the United States, possibly near [illegible].

2,000 Citizens Leave.

The peace commission stated that on leaving Chihuahua the federals [illegible] all the postage and revenue stamps, and that there [illegible] practically no money in the [illegible] that 2,000 citizens had left [illegible] troops, most of them being [illegible] who were rich and who feared [illegible] treatment by the rebels.

The commission started back for Chihuahua tonight with General Villa's [illegible] that people of all classes in [illegible] and including the federal police would be protected, and that he [illegible] dispatch troops to garrison the [illegible] soon as possible.

[illegible] Notwithstanding the action of the General Villa himself was [illegible] for departure southward. He [illegible] Chihuahua would be only a stopping place on his southward march. [illegible] was determined to continue on [illegible] City.

UHLICH SAYS HE SUPPLIED ARMS

HELD AS UNDESIRABLE ALIEN BY COURT

[illegible] Ammons Proposal [illegible] by the Referendum Vote

State Historical and Natural History Society

TRINIDAD, Dec. 2.—Robert Uhlich, president of the local union of United Mine Workers of America, tonight confessed before the military commission to having supplied strikers at the Ludlow tent colony with arms and ammunition on October 23, 1913, the day preceding the battle at Ludlow in which one man was killed.

Announcement of this confession was made by members of the military commission late tonight, after a lengthy typewritten statement was said to have been obtained from him. Uhlich, who has been very prominent in the conduct of the strike, and in the councils of the union just prior to the issuance of the strike call, told the commission that he was of German birth and an unnaturalized resident of the United States, and that he would not become naturalized because he did not approve of many things for which the American government stands.

Adjudged Undesirable Alien.

The commission adjudged Uhlich an undesirable alien and ordered him detained indefinitely as a military prisoner. What future action may be taken in his case was not intimated by members of the commission tonight, nor would the commissioners state that Uhlich's confession implicates any other union officials in violent activities of the strikers.

Uhlich stated that he purchased the munitions of war and gave them to the men at Ludlow for defensive purposes only, and that on the following day they used the arms for offensive purposes.

Uhlich is one of those union officials [illegible] by the federal grand jury at [illegible] yesterday, charged with violation of the Sherman anti-trust law and with having conspired to restrain trade.

SCORES PERISH IN BOSTON FIRE

BOSTON, Dec. 3. (Wednesday)—Fire which early this morning destroyed the Arcadia hotel, a South end lodging house, has caused several deaths and a large number of men are missing. One hundred and fifty to 175 men were reported to be asleep in the hotel and but 50 have been accounted for. Twenty men have been taken to the hospital. Firemen scaled down the burning stairways enough to venture to some of the upper stories to search the bedrooms there.

Dr. McGrath, the medical examiner who ascended to the fourth floor, said he could see between 15 and 25 bodies. He telephoned for Dr. Leary, the medical examiner for the southern district of Suffolk county, to help him.

The fifth floor was so full of smoke and steam when Dr. McGrath groped his way through that it was impossible to say how many bodies were there. He said he thought he could make out seven or eight.

One Swede, who was on the fifth floor, wrapped a mattress about him and landed on the sidewalk with a few scratches. Many others jumped into lifenets.

PRES. WILSON TALKS DIRECT TO CONGRESS

Outlines Program for Social Justice and the General Welfare of Nation

FIRM STAND ON MEXICO

Leaders of All Parties Indorse Mexican Policy; Will Support Executive

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—President Wilson laid before congress today the legislative ambition of the Democratic administration.

For exactly 28 minutes the president stood before the assembled senate and house in the chamber of the latter and read his first annual message. Applause punctuated important utterances, and when he had finished there was an enthusiastic demonstration, with handclapping and cheers.

Briefly, the president outlined a program for social justice and the general welfare of the nation and proclaimed the aspirations of the United States for international amity and the maintenance of constitutional government in all America.

With close, almost eager attention, members of the two houses listened and time and again the legislators themselves gave vent to their enthusiasm along with the crowded galleries.

Less than 4,000 words long, the message was one of the briefest and most novel of American state papers, a marked contrast as presented by its author today to the hitherto lengthy documents averaging 30,000 words or more, droned through by a reading clerk to an inattentive congress.

City Was [illegible].

There was [illegible] contrast [illegible] [illegible] the tariff, the [illegible] and Mexican [illegible] the [illegible] of a century-old custom being revived. Also there was an expectant curiosity as to how the president would be received. Today the president's reception was warm, almost uproarious, as he concluded his reading.

Later, Republicans and Democrats alike, pronounced the message as the utterance of a statesman.

"I like the idea of the president coming before congress," said Representative Mann, Republican leader, "and reading a short message, pithy and to the point. In the main I liked the message today. I think everybody will

IF YOU DON'T SHOVEL SNOW TO POLICE COURT YOU GO

Department Issues Strict Orders Concerning Snowy Sidewalks and Cites Offenders Into Court.

"People who have not cleared the snow and ice from the sidewalks in front of their homes or places of business must explain to the police magistrate. Members of the police department have given notice that the ordinance providing that sidewalks be kept clean will be enforced. Warnings have also been given through the press. People who have excuses can tell them to the police magistrate."

The foregoing statement, made yesterday by Chief of Police Burno, is self explanatory. Chief Burno instructed his men to order into police court every person who had failed to clean his sidewalks.

At a late hour last night about fifty had been ordered into court and had been officially "arrested." Many more, it is thought, were given verbal instructions to appear in police court today.

Storm Fails to Stop Progressive Meeting

Special to The Gazette.

FORT MORGAN, Dec. 2.—In spite of a fierce gale and snowstorm which raged here tonight an enthusiastic crowd gathered in the court room to hear several prominent Progressives outline the future program. Many of the vital issues before the Progressives were discussed and the meeting ended with the formation of a Progressive club and the election of a vice president from every precinct. Meetings will be held at regular intervals and an active campaign to increase the membership of the club will be carried on here.

MINE TOMB FOR MEXICAN BANDIT

IMPOSSIBLE FOR HIM TO SURVIVE

Costs Lessers $1,000 a Day for Men to Be Idle, but They Offer No Protest

BINGHAM, Utah, Dec. 2.—Not a sound since last night has come from the Utah-Apex mine, in which Ralph Lopez, desperado, is confined. Today all the exits except that in the lowest level were sealed with double bulkheads, and tonight it was believed that the gas-filled mine had become the fugitive's tomb.

The tense watchfulness of seven sheriffs and over 300 deputies for a break for liberty was relaxed, although the number of guards was not lessened. It was considered impossible for him to approach any of the exits without being overcome.

One by one, the polyglot crowd of miners, which has stood awaiting vengeance since two of their number were killed in the underground battle Saturday, dispersed tonight. They felt satisfied that the poisonous fumes pouring into the mine since yesterday had done their work.

That the jaunty Mexican gunman, who killed a fellow countryman and five peace officers because a woman favored another, may be still alive, remains a bare possibility. His one chance for life was to have sealed himself up in [illegible], distant stope against the invasion of the poisonous gases.

No Chance for Escape.

Before erecting the outer bulkhead, 300 feet from the [illegible] in the Andy tunnel late today, six men went to the inner bulkhead, 30 feet from the mouth, to examine it. Shortly afterward, one of [illegible] staggered out and fell to the [illegible], overcome from the gas that [illegible] through the partition. [illegible] inside and carried out [illegible] five, all of whom had dropped [illegible] in the tunnel. They [illegible] revived but it was striking [illegible] of the deadliness of the gas [illegible] the mine.

[illegible] after eluding his pursuers in the [illegible] for nearly a week.

Deadly Gases Generated.

Thousands of pounds of wet gunpowder were consumed to generate what is known and feared by miners as "black damp." Sulphur, coal tar, formaldehyde and black oil were the chief ingredients used in addition. The fuel of the smudges was composed of coal, green wood, hay and cotton waste.

Two hundred men are out of work in the lower level as a result of the smudging operations. The lessers are said to be suffering a net loss of over a thousand dollars a day. They announced, however, that they would gladly remain idle a month in order to bring about the death of Lopez.

The smudging will continue for 12 or 24 hours more. Not before Friday night, it is thought, will the deputies be able to enter the mine.

Thousands today attended the funeral of Deputy Tom Mandrich, who was shot by Lopez Saturday. The feeling against the Mexican miners was intense and speakers at the grave counselled that the Hungarians be law-abiding.

'WIDOW CASE' TO BE TRIED IN THIS CITY

Change of Venue Granted in Suit of Mrs. Kennedy for Stratton Millions

Stratton estate trustees yesterday morning were granted a change of venue from the Denver district court to El Paso county in the case brought against the estate by Mrs. Sophia G. Kennedy of Leadville, who claims to be the widow of Winfield Scott Stratton and demands one-half of the millions left by the mining man. When the case will come to trial is a matter of conjecture. Arguments for the estate were made by Attorney D. P. Strickler.

WOMEN FLAY PRES. WILSON FOR MESSAGE

Condemn Failure to Mention Suffrage Amendment to the Constitution

STEER CLEAR OF MILITANCY

Revision of the Association's Constitution Is Delicate Question Raised

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National Woman Suffrage association, created a sensation at tonight's session of the convention when she declared President Wilson had fallen short of the greatest opportunity he had ever had or ever will have, in failing to say a word in behalf of woman suffrage today when he read his annual message to congress. Her remarks provoked loud and prolonged applause.

"President Wilson," she continued, "referred in his message to the fact that time had come for an extension of greater social justice and we women eagerly listened to this. We hoped social justice would include some measure of political justice to the women of the country.

"We feel President Wilson has fallen short of the greatest opportunity which has come to him or ever will come to him. No other president has ever had such an opportunity. President Wilson had the opportunity of speaking a word which might ultimately lead to the enfranchisement of a large part of the human family. Even Lincoln, who, by a word, freed a race, had not this opportunity to release from the bonds one half of the human family.

President Wilson Disappoints.

"I feel I must make this statement [illegible] as it is for the [illegible] that [illegible] at [illegible] [illegible] to the United States to blaze the way for the extension of universal suffrage in every quarter of this globe. President Wilson has missed the one thing that might have made it possible for him never to have been forgotten. I am saying this on behalf of myself and of my fellow officers."

When Dr. Shaw concluded, the convention, amid enthusiastic cheering, adopted by acclamation the following resolution introduced by Dr. J. William Funk of Baltimore:

"RESOLVED, that it is the sense of this meeting that President Wilson failed to rise to the sublimest heights of democracy when he failed in his message to congress today to recommend the freedom of half of the citizens of the civilized world."

Steer Clear of Militancy.

Fear of bringing on a revolt that might give America a militant suffragist organization today caused leaders in the National Woman Suffrage association to abandon their efforts to have adopted a new constitution, reported by a revision committee appointed a year ago. Advocates of rights for state associations and opponents of a proposed budget system for raising the national organization funds declined emphatically to accept the recommendations, and finally the draft was referred back to the committee with instruction that a compromise constitution to meet the view of all factions be prepared.

Today's sessions of the forty-fifth annual convention of the association were devoted almost exclusively to discussion of the proposed revision of the constitution. The question was debated for nearly six hours without bitterness or personalities, and the contest finally resulted in a draw.

3 BURIED UNDER TONS OF DEBRIS

WOODS AND COMPANIONS IN CYCLE MINE

Slide Continues to Move and All Hope of Recovery Is Abandoned

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 2.—Thirty hours after it started, the slide in the Golden Cycle mine tonight continues, hurling hundreds of tons of rock down torn stopes to the depth of the mine, 1,000 feet below, snapping 12-inch timbers like toothpicks under the terrific battering.

The interior of the mine trembles with unceasing shocks and the rumbling and crackling of the ground in and about the mine is incessant.

Somewhere at the depth of the mine, 1,000 feet below they were working when the slide started, are the bodies of Frank M. Woods, shaft boss, Samuel Sorenson and Patrick Kevany, buried under thousands of tons of rock, a grave mound that is heaping higher hourly.

Miners Imperil Own Lives.

The slide in the Golden Cycle, one of the greatest producing properties of the district, has rallied the miners from all the district, in daring attempts in the face of the rain of rock and dirt to rescue the bodies.

Norris Eads, superintendent of the Oxford Leasing company, employer of the victims of the slide, with John Caster, a miner, crawled 40 feet into a drift today, and in a hail of rocks and debris lowered himself down a rope into an abandoned stope in the belief that the victims were there. Three times today State Mine Inspector James T. Stewart, directing rescue work, drove his crews out of the mine, running before a sudden crunching of rock, a warning of a shower from the heights in the darkness above.

Rescue Crews Withdraw.

Late tonight, after the 30-hour battle with the slide, rescue crews withdrawn by State Mine Inspector Stewart, realized they are further from the bodies of the victims than when the slide began, at 3:30 yesterday afternoon.

After running a tunnel through the first slide for 60 feet, they saw their work carried away tonight in an hour by three slides. [illegible] they learned that the stope where the three victims were working when the slide started had been shattered and caved in.

Tonight work was begun on a tunnel to approach the caved-in portion from a safe position on the side of the slide, which is 300 feet wide and 1,000 feet deep.

Henehan Makes Investigation.

State Commissioner of Mines Thomas Henehan made a preliminary investigation of the Golden Cycle property today but could not venture an opinion as to the cause of the slide.

He found that the slide had started

ISSUE CLEAN CUT, DECLARE PROGRESSIVES

Talk of Cliques and Bossism in Progressive Ranks Veriest Nonsense

FIGHT IN OPEN WELCOMED

Primaries, Outcome of Former Battles, Guarantee Field Open for All

DENVER, Dec. 2.—"It is now a fight in the open. Genuine Progressives will welcome the issue. They will have their opportunity to choose in an open primary candidates who stand squarely with Roosevelt, Johnson, Beveridge and the other national leaders for the Progressive party and all its principles, or candidates who are willing to trade these principles for fusion with the Republican party and a supposed chance to get the offices. All talk of cliques and bossism in Progressive ranks is the veriest nonsense. The primaries which are the outcome of past Progressive battles guarantee an open field and no favorites. All Progressives of course can and will be heard and judged by intelligent and alert voters who must decide for themselves both on issues and the merits of candidates.

"In the coming fight we heartily invite and will cordially welcome, regardless of past political affiliations, all men and women who stand ready to support the constructive program of political, social and industrial justice and of business prosperity [illegible] Colorado and the nation of which the Progressive party is sincerely committed. [illegible] will [illegible] that the state central committee [illegible] the recent first annual [illegible] of the Progressives of Colo. to [illegible] unanimously on record against fusion with any party."

News' Account of Meeting.

The Denver News this morning printed the following account of last night's meeting:

"Progressives who wish to combine in the next state election with the rank and file of the Republican party in this state adopted a resolution last night protesting against the attitude of the state Progressive party leaders.

STATEWIDE STRIKE MAY BE CALLED; CONFERENCE WILL BE HELD IN DENVER TODAY

DENVER, Dec. 2.—At a session late tonight, attended by heads of the Colorado State Federation of Labor, it was determined to issue a call tomorrow for a meeting of the allied trades union delegates in Denver, on a date about December 16, to decide upon the issuance of a call for statewide sympathetic strike to aid the United Mine Workers of America in their struggle in the southern and northern Colorado coal fields. John McLennon, member of the executive committee, United Mine Workers for District 15, and W. T. Hickey, secretary of the Colorado State Federation of Labor, already have been empowered to call the strike.

This authority was given McLennon and Hickey at a meeting of the executive board of the state federation which was held in Denver during the last week of October. The call for convention affects the unions of building trades, metal workers, cooks and waiters and all other unions in the state. No matter whether they are affiliated with the state federation, they will be represented at the meeting.

It was stated tonight that the date of December 16 was not a certain one on which the meeting would be held, but that exigencies of the strike might necessitate the advancement of the date of meeting. McLennon and Hickey, it is understood, have the power to call the statewide strike without further conference on the part of other union delegates, but hesitate to do so until they again discuss the matter.

There was some hesitancy tonight among the union officials in advising the issuance of the call for convention, as it was deemed an admission that more assistance was needed by the strikers to win their demands. Those opposed to the call made the point that the strike is in good condition and that the United Mine Workers of America do not need aid at the present time.

In this connection the operators issued an ultimatum tonight in which the striking miners were given until January 1, 1914, to return to work. That portion of the statement affecting the strikers follows:

Operators' Ultimatum.

"The coal operators have arranged to secure men, now located outside of the strike district, with which to operate their mines to capacity, and confi

COAL COST INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE HOLDS FIRST MEETING; PLANS OUTLINED

Work Under Way to Learn Cost of Mining With View of City Operating Own Plant

With a lively discussion between the coal operators' representatives and the other members, the first meeting of the committee appointed to investigate cost of coal and the feasibility and practicability of a municipal coal mine for Colorado Springs, was held last night in the council chamber at the city hall. W. W. Curtis and E. D. Bowers, alternative representatives of Charles H. Curtis and E. J. Ullrich, the coal operators' regular representatives on the committee, who were unable to attend the meeting, offered many suggestions as to the difficulty of operating a coal mine, while Thomas E. Thomas, one of the representatives of the Federated Trades council, and himself a coal operator, seemed willing to argue against the coal producers.

"There has never been, save for one exception, any one who ever made any money from mining coal in Colorado," said W. W. Curtis during one of his talks at the meeting. Both Mr. Curtis and Mr. Bowers gave many reasons why the coal mining industry here is not what it is thought to be. Mr. Bowers cited examples where experienced coal mining men lost large sums of money in prospecting for coal in Colorado.

McKesson Elected Chairman.

At the beginning of the session, Mayor C. L. McKesson was elected to act as chairman of the committee during the investigation that will be held. Mrs. Lillian Kerr was elected secretary. The next regular meeting will be held next Wednesday night, when Mr. Curtis, Mr. Bowers and Mr. Thomas are requested to bring data showing the cost of producing coal in this state.

THE LIKELIHOOD THAT LEGISLATORS WILL BE SUMMONED FOR EXTRA SESSION

To Date Only 67 Have Expressed Opinion in Strike Matter; One Hope Left to Ammons

[illegible] evident that Colorado's legislature will not consent to the calling of an extra session for the purpose of [illegible] legislation to end the strike [illegible] a last resort. Up to yesterday [illegible] members of the house had answered [illegible] Thomas' query [illegible] an extra session, or a bare [illegible] of the members. Of these 38 were in favor of a session, [illegible], 5 noncommittal. Thirty-[illegible] yet to be heard from. As [illegible] block the holding of a session [illegible] as 24 have already declared [illegible] opposed to it, there seems [illegible] for an extra session at [illegible].

[illegible] likely, however, that if Governor Ammons should express a desire [illegible] session [illegible] of the legislature [illegible] support him. Just at present he is waiting on the result of the referendum vote to be taken by the unions on his proposals for ending the strike, and which do not include recognition of the union. Men who claim to know the sentiment of the miners say his proposals will be decisively defeated.

The Ammons administration then has one more hope. That is that congress will investigate. Now that the house is again in session it is expected that Representative Keating will vigorously press his resolution for a federal investigation, and it is not likely this will be defeated. That again will give an additional excuse for not calling the legislature together.

U. S. SHOULD NOT GIVE UP CONTROL IN PHILIPPINES?

FORBES SAYS NATIVES ARE INCOMPETENT

"Shall We Make Second Mexico of Philippine Islands?" He Asks

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—"Shall we make a second Mexico of the Philippine islands?"

With this question, W. Cameron Forbes, former governor general of the Philippine islands, closed an address before the City club tonight, in which he had defended the policy of the United States toward its dependency in the east and warned against premature withdrawal of control.

"President Wilson has started upon a new policy in the islands," said Mr. Forbes. "He has given the Filipinos a majority of the commission, and appointed them to a few other places which were previously held by Americans. I believe the motive underlying these changes is a praiseworthy desire to let the Filipinos prove their merit and show what they could do, and I do not feel the experiment should be unduly criticized, but we should take the position of hands off and wait with suspended judgment, to let the policy have a chance to work itself out and show what the result will be.

U. S. Has Responsibility

"Looking at the situation broadly, there is one fundamental thing to which the United States has pledged itself, viz.: to establish and maintain a stable government in the Philippine islands.

"The real significance of the American work in the Philippine islands has been giving freedom to millions of people really held in serfdom. The premature withdrawal from the islands and the premature relinquishment of control will set back the bands of the clock, undo the work we have done, and, as sure as the sun ... and ... return these people to the bondage from which we have partly delivered them.

"My recommendation has been and still is that we proceed along with the only safe line of procedure, namely, that of evolution, that we fill the lower branches of the service with Filipinos, let them grow up with it, give them careful ... and thorough ... and promote them as a result of proved efficiency, giving them only what is ... for them, not always what they want.

Must Protect All.

"But let us not let go the firm anchor of the assured sovereignty of the United States and try to tie up a silly rope of sand such as 'neutralization.' Neutralization rests on nothing more than an agreement among nations are kept only so long as it is in the interest of those nations to keep them.

"How, if we give control, are we to protect the lives and the property of the citizens of the signatory powers to the agreement? To show you most geographically the position we should then be in, I have only one question to ask. Is not one Mexico enough? Shall we make a second Mexico of the Philippine islands?"

THOUSANDS FLEE TO U. S. BORDER FOR PROTECTION

STARVING CHIHUAHUANS FEARED REBELS

Exodus Began Sunday When Federal Governor Failed to Surrender

JUAREZ, Mexico, Dec. 2. Fleeing over the desert and pursued by revolutionists, ... people, including ... of the richest families in northern Mexico, who deserted Chihuahua City in fear of a rebel attack, tonight were reported to be nearing the United States border.

Among the refugees is Luis Terrazas, head of the wealthy Terrazas estate, who is said to have with him 5,000,000 pesos which he withdrew from the Chihuahua banks. Other wealthy families, including some of the Creel's, are known to have left the city, and the caravan, composed also of women and children, was described as being more than a mile long. At the head, with an escort of federal troops, is General Salvador Mercado, Huerta's deposed military governor of Chihuahua state.

Details of the evacuation of the city and the remarkable exodus of the people were brought to Juarez in official dispatches from Federico Moye, who was appointed civil governor ad interim. Moye's dispatch was addressed to Gen. Francisco Villa, and it called upon the rebel leader to take possession of the city.

Details of Evacuation.

The facts about the downfall of the Huerta power in the city, as transmitted by Governor Moye, were:

For almost three weeks, Chihuahua, with its 35,000 citizens, had been cut off from communication; the food supplies were steadily decreasing, and many deaths resulted from illness caused by semistarvation. Rumors of the supposed attack on the city accompanied by reports that the rebels had been supplied with ammunition from the United States, and that the city ... to be bombarded, increased the ...

A citizens' committee finally ... appointed to call upon General Mercado and ask him to surrender to the rebels, as resistance would be hopeless. After a ... and in the absence of any communication with Mexico City, General Mercado decided to flee. Those who wished to go ... given notice to gather their possessions. Reports had been received that the Terrazas family, which is reputed to own almost half of the land and cattle in the state, would suffer severely at the hands of the rebels. General Terrazas, the head of the family, therefore withdrew his money from the banks and placed his money from the banks and placed it in the caravan in the hope of getting it out of the country.

Exodus Began Sunday.

Early Sunday, after the surrounding country had been reconnoitered, the exodus began, General Mercado first turning over the portfolio of state to Senor Moye, who was directed to notify Villa that the federal troops formally surrendered. Governor Moye issued a proclamation declaring the capital rebel territory.

The route to Ojinaga, which the refugees were reported to have taken, is about 185 miles long. General Villa said he had sent a detachment in pursuit of the federal troops and also to attach the Terrazas property, but it was not believed the rebels would be able to overtake the caravan. Villa's men had been ordered not to fire upon the noncombatants.

Gen. Pascual Orozco, who fought with Madero in 1911, but later turned against him and supported Huerta, took 2,080 federals into the mountains west of Chihuahua. With him is Gen. Jose Ynez Salazar. It is understood by Villa that three federals will attempt later to engage the rebels.

Villa is Former Bandit.

General Villa, who now assumes military command of all the north, and whose authority is second only to that of General Carranza, recognized as the revolutionary provisional president, entered the revolution five months ago with only a borrowed revolver. He is a former bandit, and for 20 years, under Diaz, was sought as an outlaw.

Elated by the capture of Chihuahua without bloodshed, Villa prepared for the dispatch of more troops south. He said 10,000 troops were to be concentrated at Chihuahua, as the main force by which the rebels hope completely to crush the Huerta regime. The troop movement is to be expedited as the reconstruction of the railroads permits.

Four thousand men, under General Alvarado, have been ordered from Sonora, almost an equal number already are approaching Chihuahua, and Villa is ready to proceed southward from Juarez. At Chihuahua, the provisional capital will be established, from which Carranza will direct further activities. With Chihuahua and Torreon as strongholds, the campaign by Villa will be directed against Zacatecas, the rich mining center in the heart of the republic. Villa said he would have troop trains operating to Torreon, 525 miles south of the border, within two weeks.

Reject Ammons' Proposal.

DENVER, Dec. 2.—Unofficial reports received at union headquarters here tonight from all regions of the strike zone, indicate that the referendum vote on Governor Ammon's strike settlement proposition had been rejected almost unanimously by the strikers. John Lawson, president of the Colorado State Federation of Labor, stated tonight that the official announcements of returns from the strike colonies would not be made until tomorrow night, as the full vote would not have been counted until then.

The governor's proposition, agreed to by the operators, called for the granting of all demands made by the strikers, save those of union recognition and increased wages. Union officials at first refused to consider the proposition, but later agreed to Secretary of Labor Wilson's suggestion that it should be put to the miners for referendum vote.

U. S. TO INDORSE 'NAVAL HOLIDAY'

WAR COSTLY PASTIME, SAY LEADERS

Most of Nation's Revenue Goes to Upbuilding the American Navy

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The house for hours today debated the Hensley resolution to commit the United States to Winston Spencer Churchill's plan for an international year's holiday in naval construction and tonight the advocates of the project predicted passage of the resolution in the house by late Friday. Consideration of the matter will be resumed Thursday with both sides, the advocates far outnumbering the opponents, prepared to continue the debate.

The idea of suspending naval construction for a year, first proposed to the British parliament by the first lord of the admiralty, has since been commended by leaders of all parties in the American congress and by the president. Majority Leader Underwood said on the floor of the house today the resolution probably would be passed unanimously.

Representative Hensley of Missouri, author of the measure, in urging its adoption, pointed out that only two per cent of the United States revenues is devoted to the benefit of agriculture, while 60 per cent goes to defray the cost of the past wars and to prepare for future wars. He declared that all over the country there was going up the cry of high cost of living while enormous expenditures were being made for military and navy purposes.

Representative Foster of Illinois said the time had come when the United States should take the lead of all the world's nations in the movement of peace to lift the burdens from the people and to leave the settlement of differences to arbitration.

Hobson Opposes Idea.

Representative Moore of Pennsylvania insisted the proposed action would inject the spirit of no battleships into consideration of the navy department's recommendation for the construction of two battleships this year. Mr. Hensley replied his resolution was a proposition distinct from the navy recommendation.

Representative Decker of Missouri declared the United States built battleships "because, forsooth our neighbors build them," and suggested the money expended for battleships could be well spent to prevent devastating floods and to build better school houses and roads. He suggested a year's naval holiday might be extended indefinitely.

Representative Hobson of Alabama said he preferred the upbuilding of the Atlantic fleet as a means of attaining a world equilibrium and as assurance of peace.

Representative Bartholdt of Missouri pointed out that, with an international agreement for a years' naval holiday, the relative strength at the end of a year would be the same among nations and that, meantime, the United States would save $50,000,000, Britain $60,000,000 and Germany $30,000,000.

OIL SUPPLY FOR ROADS CUT OFF

HARD BLOW IS DEALT HUERTA RULE

Traffic to Interior Will Be Practically Destroyed by this Order

MEXICO CITY, Dec. ... Preferring to incur the displeasure of the Huerta government to a practical ... tion of the rebels' wrath the ... ing oil companies of the ... day cancelled their contracts ... plying the national railways ... oil.

This is regarded as one of the most serious blows dealt the government, because it is likely to bring about early suspension of all railway traffic which would interfere greatly with military operations and would strike vitally at the commerce of the country. Most of the oil used by the railways is produced in the coast region of Tampico and southward. This territory is overrun with rebels directed for the most part by General Candido Aguilar.

In spite of General Aguilar's assurances to Rear Admiral Fletcher that the oil properties would not be molested representatives of the companies have been given to understand further sale of oil to the government railroads will be regarded as too great a manifestation of friendship to the enemy of the Constitutionalists.

Oil Companies Accede

The action of the oil companies in acceding to what practically amounted to a demand is considered not at all displeasing to the Mexican railway which is the property of a British corporation, as the cutting of the line from Tampico to San Luis Potosi had diverted nearly all shipments to Mexico City over this line from Vera Cruz, and recently the management of the Mexican railway was warned that its line would be cut off if it persisted in moving oil.

Practically all the locomotives have been using oil for some years and the scarcity of coal will make a return to that fuel difficult. If the Mexican railway also is barred from the use of oil, and it is assumed it will be, even ordinary passenger traffic between the capital and the coast may become irregular.

Rear Admiral Christopher Cradock, commanding the British cruisers in Mexican waters, called on President Huerta this afternoon. He was accompanied by the British minister, Sir Lionel Carden and on his return to the legation expressed himself as highly pleased at his reception. The British admiral also called on the American charge d'affaires, Nelson O'Shaughnessy. He expects to leave the Mexican capital tomorrow morning for Vera Cruz.

has had the following replies to his letter.

In Favor of an Extra Session.

Senator Thomas H. Iles, Democrat, Moffat.

Senator L. A. Van Tilborg, Democrat, Teller.

E. R. Young, Democrat, Teller.

Against an Extra Session.

Senator J. P. Pearson, Democrat, Gunnison.

P. T. McDonald, Democrat, Pueblo.
Hallett C. Gallup, Democrat, Pueblo.
C. J. Leftwich, Democrat, Pueblo.
Charles T. Philp, Democrat, Weld.

Senator Iles, writing from Axial, explains that when he left Denver after a conference with the governor the latter was confident his peace plans would be adopted. "If this fails," writes Senator Iles, "I would most heartily cooperate in any legitimate plan to bring this unfortunate condition to a speedy termination. I would favor a compulsory arbitration law, if such a bill could be drawn, protecting the right of both parties, and would even be willing to take a chance at such a law, though the constitutional rights are questioned and lawyers disagree. In short, I am for a speedy settlement, permanency of settlement and fairness of settlement."

Senator Van Tilborg writes: "I have taken the matter up personally with Governor Ammons two different times, and also by letter, and if anyone can devise any means or methods whereby the legislators can effect a settlement, or assist in getting one, I am willing to do my part."

Wants to See Bill.

"I am not sure what kind of a bill I would support," says Representative Young of Victor. "I am in favor of doing anything that could be done to help Colorado and to put an end to coal strikes or any other strikes, but I want to see the bill."

Doubtless Senator Pearson of Gunnison who is now in Denver and who gave his name to the mine inspection bill passed by the last legislature, expresses the sentiment of Governor Ammons. He says: "I have had several talks with the governor in regard to the coal strike and he is very much perplexed over it. I do not feel like it would be wise to call the legislature together in special session at this time. I would not care to pledge myself to vote for an arbitration act until I could know what it is."

Representative Philp of Weld county opposes an extra session, but says if one were called he would vote for an arbitration act.

The four Pueblo representatives unite in a letter opposing the calling of an extra session. They say:

"With reference to the matter of calling the legislature together in extraordinary session for the purpose of passing a compulsory arbitration act, we do not believe it advisable at this time, as there is some doubt in our minds regarding whether or not a compulsory arbitration act would be constitutional. Also that the convening of the legislature will in all probabilities have a tendency to add to, rather than alleviate, the present unrest."

NEW YORK 'SPUGS' TO PLAY SANTA CLAUS TO LONELY

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The local organization of the Society for the Prevention of Useless Giving plans to play host on Christmas day to every lonely person in New York city. There is to be a Christmas party in Grand Central palace for the lonely, a Christmas tree, music, dancing, singing and refreshments.

Announcement of the plan was made by Kate Douglas Wiggins (Mrs. George Riggs), at a "Spug" meeting tonight. The number of guests expected is placed at 20,000. To defray the expenses of the entertainment, the 'Spugs' are making voluntary contributions, placing their offerings in a huge paper pie at headquarters. The pie is to be opened Christmas afternoon.

"The Spugs' believe in the promotion of the Christmas spirit, as well as the prevention of useless giving," Mrs. Riggs said.

Stopped Those Pains

Copper Hill, Va.—Mrs. Ida Conner, of this place, says: "For years I had a pain in my right side and I was very sick with womanly troubles. I tried different doctors but could get no relief. dently expect that within 30 days they will have all the men required.

"It is the desire of the operators that their old employes should return to work before the mines have been filled with other workmen, and preference will be given to the men now on strike who have not been guilty of violence, up to January 1, 1914."

The statement further asserts that several of the mines now are working with full forces, and that others, the output of which will not be required for this season's business, will not be reopened until the beginning of another season.

Arrangements were made today between Horace N. Hawkins, attorney for the United Mine Workers of America, and the United States district attorney's office which will obviate the necessity for formal arrest of the union officials and strikers who have been indicted by the federal grand jury which adjourned in Pueblo yesterday. Immediately upon the issuance of a warrant, United States Marshal Bailey will notify the miners' attorney, who then will produce his client and bond will be furnished for him at once in satisfactory amounts.

All of the proceedings in connection with the indictment will be carried out in Denver, with the possible exception of the issuance of some warrants for arrest.

VIOLENCE MARKS TEAMSTERS STRIKE

One Man Killed in Riots and Several Others Are Seriously Injured

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 2.—An effort to call a general strike in sympathy with the teamsters and chauffeurs strike, was started at a meeting of the teamsters' union late today. No definite action was taken it being decided to wait until the union officers had conferred with the leaders of the Central Labor union. The question will come up again at tomorrow's meeting.

The first fatality of the strike which was started Sunday midnight, occurred today when a crowd interfered with an ice wagon, in charge of six men on whom special police powers had been conferred. When the crowd began throwing bricks and tried to prevent the wagon moving, a special officer shot, killing Claud Lewis, a negro, and wounding four others, one fatally. The special officers were taken to police headquarters but were released on their own recognizance.

More Wagons Operating.

Another crowd was fired upon today by William Whorton, a negro, when he was attacked on a wagon owned and driven by himself. Jack Long, a teamster, was wounded in the right leg. Whorton was arrested. There were several other minor disorders but no one was seriously injured.

The police made numerous arrests. Among those taken into custody today was Henry Friedman, a prominent labor and political leader and wealthy. He was charged with interfering with an officer.

A proposed parade of strikers did not materialize. Mayor Wallace, as soon as he heard of the plan, issued a proclamation ordering the police to stop any attempted demonstrations. The police kept the crowd constantly on the move and did not give the parade a chance to form.

Negro Fires Into Crowd

According to employers of teamsters, more wagons were operating today than yesterday and there was little interference. Thomas J. Farrell, general organizer of the union contends however the union teamsters holding firm and more than 2,000 men still are out.

While food supplies are still plentiful as retail merchants anticipated the strike and stocked up their stores liberally, the accumulated garbage is becoming a serious question. No garbage has been collected in the city since Saturday.

Business men with horses were sworn in as the citizens cavalry today ... mounted police. Thus far the regular police have been able to handle the situation without calling out the business men's reserves numbering more than 700 who were sworn in Sunday night and Monday.

May Call General Strike.

Thomas J. Farrell late today addressed a mass meeting of the striking teamsters. He declared he would ask that a general strike be called to protest against the shooting of the five men today and the treatment of the strikers by the police.

"If organized labor will get together and all stand together, we will put the city in darkness as a protest to this slaughter on the streets," Mr. Farrell said. "The governor and mayor will be appealed to for rightful protection, but if these executives do not insure us justice, then I am sure it is up to the laborer to get that justice himself."

HOW I MADE MY HAIR GROW

Woman With Marvelously Beautiful Hair Gives Simple Home Prescription Which She Used With Most Remarkable Results.

I was greatly troubled with dandruff and falling hair. I tried many advertised hair preparations and various prescriptions but they all signally failed, many of them made my hair greasy so it was impossible to comb it up properly. I think that many of the things I tried were positively injurious and from my own experience I cannot too strongly caution you against using preparations containing wood alcohol and other poisonous substances. I believe they injure the roots of the hair. After my long list of failures I finally found a simple prescription which I can unhesitatingly state is beyond doubt the most wonderful thing for the hair I have ever seen. Many of my friends have also used it and obtained wonderful effects therefrom. It not only is a powerful stimulant to the growth of the hair and for restoring gray hair to its natural color, but it is equally good for removing dandruff, giving the hair life and brilliancy, etc., and for the purpose of keeping the scalp in first-class condition. It also makes the hair easier to comb and arrange in nice form. I have a friend who used it two months and during that time it has not only stopped the falling of his hair and wonderfully increased its growth, but it practically restored all of his hair to its natural color. You can obtain the ingredients for making this wonderful preparation from almost any druggist. The prescription is as follows:

Bay Rum 6 oz. Menthol Crystals, ½ drachm. Lavona de Composee, 2 oz. If you like it perfumed add 1 drachm of your favorite perfume. This, however, is not necessary. Apply night and morning, rub thoroughly into the scalp. Adv.

THE FEDERAL GRAND JURY AND THE STRIKE

THE report of the Federal Grand Jury which has just finished an investigation of the coal strike is an important contribution to the literature of the subject, and one which ought to be read carefully by people who are interested in knowing the truth. A Federal grand jury is usually composed of men of superior standing and ability, for it is carefully chosen. Its responsibilities, moreover, exert a sobering influence, and tend toward calmness and impartiality in the making of its decisions. For these reasons the report just submitted demands serious consideration.

The Grand Jury has returned twenty-five indictments against officers and organizers of the United Mine Workers of America. Ten of these have been made public, of which three charge maintenance of a monopoly of labor and seven conspiracy in restraint of trade. Of course we know nothing of the evidence on which these indictments are based.

But the severity of the language employed by the Grand Jury in characterizing the methods of the union officials to force recognition and attain other ends justifies the inference that the zeal of the leaders has exceeded their discretion. For instance, the report says that strike leaders "have brought professional strike agitators and have armed hundreds of irresponsible aliens who have become a menace to the peace and prosperity, and even the lives of our citizens." . . . . "They confess their inability to control the men whom they have armed and aroused." . . . "The lawlessness of many of the striking miners is caused by radical agitators, imported from other states, who inflame them with incendiary speeches and exhortations to violence."

To sympathize with the miners cause is one thing, to condone their violent methods is quite a different thing. The Gazette has believed from the beginning in the justice of the strikers' cause, but it has as consistently condemned their violence. We do not hold the union leaders altogether responsible for the crimes that have occurred so frequently in the Trinidad district, for they are dealing with a set of men whose natural tendency is toward violence. A large majority of the miners are ignorant aliens from southern Europe who turn naturally to a weapon as the only means of settling a difficulty. To control such men under existing conditions is obviously impossible, which makes it all the more imperative for the leaders to exert a restraining influence over them. But instead of doing this they have at times, as the grand jury says, "inflamed them with incendiary speeches and exhortations to violence." To this extent the leaders are responsible for much of the criminality that has occurred.

* * * * *

On the other side of the question the Grand Jury's conclusions appear to be equally sound. Its criticisms of the operators remove any suspicion of bias which might be implied by the previous condemnation of the strike leaders. The operators are accused of being remiss in endeavoring to secure and hold the good will of their employes. The jury deduced from the testimony that "there existed reasonable grounds for many of the grievances complained of by the miners. We believe that many of these complaints are substantial and have merit."

The state laws, says the jury, have not been enforced impartially, and "the coal companies have been sufficiently influential to nominate, elect and control many county officers, and have done so with the result of complicating the industrial situation and arousing political prejudice." Again, "brutal assaults by camp marshals upon miners have produced general dissatisfaction etc.," which shows that the grand jury finds that not all the violence has been committed by one side.

This excerpt from the report deserves attention:

"Many of the coal companies maintain camp saloons and . . . from the keepers of such saloons a fee of . . . cents per month for each person whose name appears upon the company payroll. Many camp saloons are open after midnight and on Sunday, contrary to the state law. Over one saloon there has floated for years the red flag of anarchy with an open knife fastened to the flag. This saloon is a rendezvous for anarchists, and many crimes are chargeable to its influence."

It is hard to remain good tempered while commenting on such a situation.

The Colorado mining laws are commended as "the best in the United States for the protection of the miner," and the grand jury recommends that they be more diligently enforced. The word "more" is superfluous, they have not been enforced at all, and herein lies much of the difficulty. Indeed, it is an odd commentary on the situation that the operators are now offering to obey the law as a basis of settlement, thereby admitting that they have disregarded it heretofore. The comment of Vice President Hayes on this point is pertinent. He asks why no indictment was returned against the operators for their dereliction. It is, indeed, a source of wonderment.

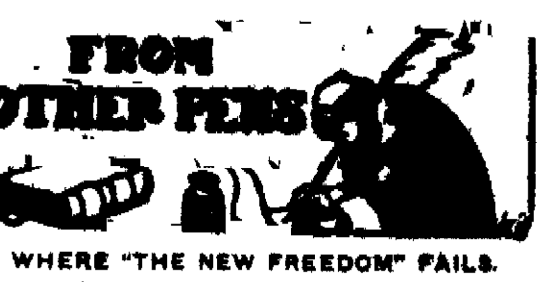
SUNNYREST SANATORIUM

THERE is a certain fitness in having the campaign for funds for Sunnyrest come at Christmas time. The minds of people are then turned towards a study of tuberculosis and the means of extirpating it, because of the sale of the Red Cross stamps that always occurs during the holiday season. And Sunnyrest is one of the sanest and most practicable efforts that has been made in any city towards the restoration to health of sufferers from the white plague.

Some time ago The Gazette told in detail of the work being done at Sunnyrest. The gist of it all was, that Sunnyrest is an ideal sanatorium for tubercular patients. There they have the best of care, in the most pleasant surroundings, and at the very minimum of cost. And there dozens of young men and women have been restored to health and sent back to do their work in the world.

But Sunnyrest is not self-supporting. There are patients who cannot afford even the moderate sum needed to keep them in this model sanatorium. Such patients, if not cared for, would soon die. No city that even pretended to call itself Christian could for a moment permit this. And therefore such patients are taken to Sunnyrest, where they are given exactly the same care and attention and the same chance for recovery as those more fortunate ones who can pay.

It is in order that Sunnyrest may care for these penniless sufferers that there must be a campaign for subscriptions, so that the work may be carried on for another term of years as it has been since the sanatorium was opened. The amount required is exceedingly small, and all those who have ever visited Sunnyrest know that not a cent is wasted by the sisters who conduct the institution. Every generous-minded citizen ought to respond freely to the request for a contribution, and thus aid to the extent of his ability in stamping out this most dread of all diseases.



WHERE "THE NEW FREEDOM" FAILS.

From the New York Evening Post.

The way in which the press has spoken out against President Wilson's yielding to the prejudices of the southern elements in his administration must have been altogether encouraging to the colored people. Nearly every Chicago newspaper has protested the Inter Ocean calling segregation in Washington 'preposterous,' the Public declaring it 'a violation of civil service reform principles less excusable than any committed by spoilsmen,' while the Evening Post declares that 'we are a century too late for such a mediæval solution of the problem.' The Boston Advertiser speaks of the 'harshness and cruelty of this outrageous policy' and the conservative Transcript believes that Mr. Wilson's 'acquiescence in segregation would be the most sardonic commendation on "The New Freedom."' The Tacoma News thinks that the protest to the president is justified by the laws of the land and the dictates of freedom and fairness.

The Congregationalist will, for instance, we have already printed, it is highly significant that after hearing both sides of the case the Congregational council of the church in session in Kansas City last week telegraphed resolutions of protest to Mr. Wilson . . . The . . . press is, of course, practically to one party now appears undone, they must inevitably flock back to the Republican party.

LA JUNTA WANTS NO FUSION

From the La Junta Tribune.

One day this week some local standpatter placed a four line squib of reprint in our postoffice item box which reads thusly: All right, be obstinate if you will, but so long as the Progressives maintain their isolation from the G. O. P. the Democrats will hold the offices. Now isn't that just like a standpatter. If we get together we can get the offices, and what are we here for if not for the offices, says the standpatter. Unless the Progressives and the Republicans get together right away the last lingering hope of pie and patronage will vanish, for the G. O. P. could never stand another defeat like that of last fall when Utah and Vermont were all that was left of the grand old party. We don't believe there is any hope of amalgamating the Progressives and Republicans than there is of fusion between the Democrats and Republicans. The Progressives are not worrying about the offices and although this assertation may be incomprehensible to the average standpatter it is nevertheless true. The Republican party was not organized for pie and plunder, but to abolish slavery and it succeeded. In our opinion it has outlived its usefulness. The Progressive party was not organized for pie and plunder either. It has a few ideas, several of them along the lines of social and industrial justice, more popularly known as the policy of the social . . . of which Theodore Roosevelt is the high priest, and it is going to make strenuous endeavors to bring them about. The Progressive party is ready to receive with open arms all standpatters, Democrats, Socialists, Prohibitionists or anyone else who feels inclined to sign up the articles of faith.

SLAVES

BY GEORGE FITCH

Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

A slave is a person who has to do what his master bids him and cannot take the case to the supreme court.

Slaves were once very plentiful in this bad world, and literature is filled with their sufferings and oppressions. It is carelessly believed by most people that the slaves were freed long ago and that mankind is now in a state of universal and riotous freedom. Nothing could be further from the truth. There are more slaves than ever, and their sufferings have been greatly enlarged in scope and variety.

"With a firm resolve to issue an emancipation proclamation."

Millions of men rise every morning with the firm resolve to issue an emancipation declaring themselves free forever from thirst. But by noon they can be found with one foot on the bar, sowing wild oats and reaping headaches without pay, in the same old style.

Millions of men have smoked their last cigar with heroic resolve and have sworn to buy homes with the money to be saved. Those who have never seen a cowed and humble citizen hunting for the cigar box which he tossed out of the window the night before have missed one of the most pathetic instances of modern slavery.

Every day in this happy country we notice hardened men meekly handshaking their way through life. These men would give anything to be able to keep their feet on the mantel piece at night and rest in peace for a whole evening, but they are not their own masters. Their constituents own them and they will not be free until they are defeated at the polls.

Many a happy and prosperous man has, in the last 10 years, been suddenly taken captive by a huge and overbearing automobile and has been compelled to dedicate his life and income to its service. What can be more heart-rending than the case of the poor wretch who works overtime each day in order to earn the money for gasoline, and who must then spend each evening cleaning spark plugs and hunting for the elusive and maddening squeak?

Each Sunday the demon golf enters thousands of American homes, and drags from them protesting young men who had prepared to go to church, but are not allowed to do so. And each evening other thousands of citizens struggle glumly into evening clothes and follow their wives through $56.75 worth of bridge whist while the billiard table at the club languishes in idleness.

There are only a very few men who are not slaves, but they need not puff up over it. They may have escaped golf, politics, bridge whist and the automobile, but who can tell when an aeroplane will be domesticated and whom it will enslave?

Thinking of Two Things at Once

BY RUTH CAMERON

"But I can't think of two things at once," I heard a woman protest the other day, when she was asked to do something which involved that operation. She said it with an air of righteous indignation, as if that were a thing that should not be expected of anyone.

Can you think of two things at once?

We often hear the praises of concentration sung.

And it is a great thing to be able to concentrate. But it is not good to concentrate on one thing, however important, to the exclusion of other important things. The well-trained mind is able to concentrate when necessary and to diffuse itself over two or more interests when that is desirable. No one who cannot do both can be thoroughly efficient in either the big or little affairs of life.

Take housekeeping for instance. No woman can possibly be a good housekeeper until she has learned to think of at least two things at once. If she cannot do that, she will be sure to burn the cake while she is talking to the peddler, or forget to . . . the dinner because she is so intent on her . . . Indeed, as anyone will tell you, most . . . think of not merely two or three things but a great many things, at the same time.

Again in so simple a matter as taking a picture with an ordinary camera it is necessary to think of at least two things at once, and probably more. You must think of the light, the time and the focus simultaneously, and if you forget any one, you spoil the picture. And then you must not fail to turn your film, and if you have remembered the other things you are likely to forget that, as most of us can testify from bitter experience. It is probably because some people cannot think of two things at once that such a large percentage of amateur pictures are poor.

Some years ago I went house hunting for the first time. All my life I had wanted an open fireplace, and I was determined to find a house that should have one. And so I did. Indeed, it had several of them, but it did not have any furnace pipes in the . . . and only one closet on the bedroom floor . . . matters which I had overlooked because I couldn't think of more than one thing at a time.

A friend of mine was once invited to the house where a famous chess player was giving an exhibition of . . . eight games at once. He sat alone . . . upstairs. His opponents were scattered about the house and a messenger came and told him the move each one had made. Then he told the messenger what plays he wanted made for him . . . in every game.

Of course, such a thing as that is an abnormality, but it shows the extent to which the human mind can be trained to diffuse itself.

ODDS AND ENDS

Better get the attorney general down from . . . river now and let him eat with his own eyes that the Stratton home is really open. It will be a bitter disappointment to the . . . that it is now impossible to get this home away from Colorado Springs.

Unless savings can be made elsewhere, county taxes would have to be increased . . . one . . . hundredth of a cent to provide for the appointment of a policewoman. It would seem that El Paso county could afford that much for the protection of the girls.

Raw wool went on the free list yesterday. Does that mean that clothes will now be as "cheap" as food?

Alienation of the affections of a cow is something new in court procedure, but a Colorado Springs dairy recovered $100 against parties who had enticed away one of its herd.

Who says the courts don't move? The Illinois supreme court has declared the child labor law of that state constitutional.

The Denver Chamber of Commerce wants $30,000 with which to induce factories to locate in Denver. The first requisite is fair freight rates. If they are secured the factories will come without invitation.

The failure of the Mesa county National bank of Grand Junction, it is explained, is not due to financial conditions, but to the desire of enemies of the president, Orson Adams, to "get" him.

The retirement of Chester S. Morey as president of the Great Western Sugar company and the election of H. C. Havemeyer to succeed him only means that the boss is taking charge. Morey has long been only a minority stockholder, carrying out Havemeyer's orders.

The northern Colorado cities have decided on a scale of phone prices and given the Mountain States two weeks in which to accept. A one party business phone would cost $3.50 per month, a two party residence $1.25, under the new scale. The . . . franchises have expired in all the northern Colorado cities, which are working as a unit for lower rates.

The fit was thrown even before Dave Day could utter the prediction and one paroxysm is being succeeded by another so fast that the patient's life is already despaired of.

In addition to paying an increased price for every ton of coal the taxpayers of Colorado are shouldering an expense of $5,000 a day to maintain peace in the strike district. It would be cheaper if the governor called the legislature in . . . to pass laws that would enable the state to handle the situation.—Lamar Sparks.

Municipal Lighting Plant a Profitable Investment

Loveland Plant Earns $19,500 Net, Besides Giving Far Better Service Than City Ever Before Had

From the Loveland Reporter.

Since the recent offer of the Northern Colorado Power company to reduce rates for lighting current consumers, the Reporter has made further investigation along the line of what is being accomplished with municipal plants in other cities and the result is nothing short of interesting.

The advantages of municipal lighting . . . of the . . . of . . . they . . . have . . . a water power plant and is . . . to us that we can better . . . the . . . of . . . .

Ray . . ., superintendent of the Loveland plant says their total revenue for the year ending October 1, 1913, was $26,771.65. The operating and maintenance expenses were only $6,...; the interest and . . . for depreciation amounted to $7,..., leaving a net profit of $13,...; Each . . . is provided with a free porch light to burn all night, and the total revenue is much lower than was annually received by the power company. The item of $6,... includes all labor, supplies, insurance and incidentals, and it would appear that this should be ample for a plant that is operated by water power.

These figures show quite a contrast when placed alongside those put forward by the power company to estimate the probable cost of operating a municipal plant.

What They're Doing Elsewhere.

Out in the progressive city of Bellingham, Wash., the Good Government League is waging a fight for the commission form of government, a business administration of the city's affairs and a municipal lighting plant. From one of the daily papers we take the following:

They calculate that they can produce and deliver current for from one-half cent to five or . . . cents per kilowatt.

Tacoma built her own plant and built a large one to provide for future requirements. Only 30 per cent of the capacity is in use, but the business is increasing to such an extent that after giving the manufacturers rates on power as low as one-half cent per kilowatt, the cheapest in the United States, and to private consumers at one cent a kilowatt, the revenues, estimated for 1914, showed such a large profit over $100,000 that the city council pledged itself to a reduction of 10 per cent on lighting rates to become effective January 1, 1914.

Why should the construction and operation of a municipal plant for Loveland be so expensive as to be prohibitive? Why should we tie up for another 10 years with a company that burns coal for power when the God of nature has provided us with water power in the adjacent hills and the laws of the state have given us the right to use this water power?

The laws, however, provide that we must develop and use these rights without delay. Why, then, should we sleep on our rights?

What would it mean to our city if we could . . . to prospective citizens "Come to Loveland, the best governed little city in the finest . . . part of the great state of Colorado . . . nature has provided . . . . . . the . . . visiting mountain snow, electricity at . . . at a lower cost than elsewhere, and yet where . . . and light pricing . . . revenue that pays the running expenses of the city government?"

DR. MONTESSORI'S VISIT

Americans are to have an opportunity to see and hear Dr. Maria Montessori, the famous Italian teacher and observe for themselves her much discussed methods of teaching young children. Madame Montessori will arrive in this country today, to give a series of lectures on the work of her schools in Rome. She will be accompanied by an interpreter, in order to be able to use her native Italian. She is bringing with her moving pictures illustrative of the work as it is actually carried on in the "House of Childhood."

Madame Montessori's tour will be under the auspices of the Montessori Educational Association of America, of which Mrs Alexander Graham Bell is president, Dr. P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education first vice president, and Colonel McClure of New York, second vice president; Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the president, is a member of the board of trustees of the association, and will be active in the reception to be accorded to Dr. Montessori at the national capital.

Dr Montessori will be in the United States about three weeks. She will visit eight or ten cities east of the Mississippi, beginning with Washington, which is the headquarters of the Montessori association. She does not expect to be able to go very far south or west on this trip.

WILSON'S PORTRAIT FOR KAISER

Gustav Langenberg, Globe Trotting Painter, Does His Work Quickly

From the New York Herald.

Gustav C. Langenberg, who is known as "the artist on horseback," from his proclivities for globe trotting, and who has studios in Paris, Munich and New York, is putting the finishing touches on a portrait of President Wilson which he is doing for the German emperor.

The artist, whose studio here is at 106 West Fifty fifth street, will make one more trip to Washington to see the president and then the portrait will be sent to Berlin.

Among the notable portraits which Mr. Langenberg has painted are those of the Germany emperor, the queens of England, Holland and Spain, the erstwhile Crown Princess Louise of Saxony, Presidents Loubet and Poincare of France, and Mme Sarah Bernhardt. He has a wonderful memory and most of his portraits are done with two sittings. At the first sitting he paints rapidly the salient characteristics of his subject, and these he develops from memory. He makes sure of the color and finer points at a final sitting. The portrait of Mr. Wilson is the result of a single sitting.

"I shall go to Washington in a few days," said the artist, "shake hands with the president and make sure that my color is right."

Mr. Langenberg, who was born in Germany but whose father was an Italian and whose mother was a French woman, has painted in the wildest parts of Africa, in Mexico and in India, and is known as a sportsman. Several years ago he made a trip . . . the world and after painting notable persons in China and Japan he came to this country. For two years he had a studio in Chicago.

'TEMPTATION NOT SIN; RATHER IT IS ONE OF OUR GREATEST BLESSINGS,' SAYS PRATT

Evangelist Preaches Strong Sermon, Pointing Way to Victory After Defeat

One of the most enthusiastic meetings of the evangelistic series led by the Rev Benaiah Pratt, was held in the Temple theater last night. A good-sized audience was present in spite of the storm, and with the extra heating facilities the building was warm and comfortable.

A feature of the meetings this week will be the store meetings at 12:15 to 12:45 o'clock each day. The meeting today will be held at Meuth's and five or six members of one of the brotherhood gospel teams will speak three minutes each on "Christian Life as a Business Asset." These meetings will be informal and will appeal to the business men of the town.

The subject of the sermon last night was "Temptation." Text Cor. 1, 10-13—"There hath no temptation taken you but such as is common to man; and God is faithful who will not suffer you to be tempted above what ye are able, but will with the temptation, provide a way of escape." He said in part.

Temptation Universal Fact

Temptation is a universal fact in human life. Its waves break over the ship of every human being, even Christ was tempted. There never will come a time between the cradle and the grave when temptation in some form will not beset you. There is no hiding from it in any monastery or in any profession.

"People suppose their own temptations to be unique. They say 'I can't be a Christian because of my special temperament and temptation,' but 'No temptation hath taken you but such as is common to man.' Other men have met and mastered them and you may.

"Temptation is not sin. If it were, then Jesus sinned, but he was the sinless one. There is no sin in it until we yield the yes of the will. Temptation is the devil knocking at the door; sin is our opening of the door.

"Temptation is one of God's greatest blessings. Count it all joy when ye fall into many temptations. Why? Because the word in its primary sense means to test and try to prove and God tests men that they may be strong. We would never be fit [illegible] if it were not for life's tests. Every great character must meet the tempests and storms of life. It takes white heat to make steel and it takes the white heat of life's temptations to burn away the dross of the human soul.

Temptation Not Compulsion.

"God's promise is that no temptation come above our resisting power. Therefore temptation is not compulsion. 'My grace is sufficient for thee.' Finally there is always a way of escape. No Christian is ever absolutely cornered. There are several ways out. First keep your heart right; pray daily; let the holy spirit stand guard at the gate of my thoughts. Second read your Bible. 'Thy word have I hid in my heart that I might not sin against thee.' Prayer too is a mighty weapon in the hand of a Christian man or woman. Cultivate the companionship of the man of Galilee, watch your habits; don't get on the devil's side of the fence and then pray for help. Best of all, overcome evil by good. Keep so busy doing good to humanity that evil will have no power over you.

"Are you a defeated man?" All of us have known defeat. Christ in your heart and life means victory."

The usual prayer meetings in the homes of the city will be held today at 10 o'clock. The meeting for women at the Y W C A will be held from 1 to 1:30 o'clock in order to accommodate all who may wish to attend. Mr. Pratt will speak at 3 o'clock in Temple theater on "The Christian and His Bible." Special plans are being carried out for a great rally of the brotherhoods of the churches tomorrow night when the addresses will be especially for men. Every Christian man is required to bring a "live ticket."

BREACH BETWEEN COLORADO COLLEGE AND AGGIES IS HEALED; TO RESUME ATHLETICS

Committees From Both Institutions Adjust Differences Following Football Accident

All differences between Colorado college and Colorado Agricultural college have been satisfactorily settled and athletic relations will be renewed, according to an article in yesterday's issue of the Colorado College Tiger. The peace pact which according to the Tiger was signed in Denver November 15, ends a period of bitter strife which has lasted more than a year.

Committees from the faculties of each institution thoroughly probed the breach and presented their conclusions at a joint meeting. Both decided that neither college had violated conference rules on the athletic field and that there existed no cause for bitter feeling in either school. The representatives of the faculties also pledged themselves to use their influence to promote friendly relations between the two colleges and to prevent any further misunderstandings.

The split came during football season last year, when the Aggies, immediately after their games with the Tigers, charged that Coach Rothgeb of the local eleven had instructed his men to "get" one of the Aggie stars, with the result that Leigh was injured so badly he could not play again during the season. Rothgeb and the Tigers resented the charge and immediately broke all relations with the Fort Collins school, refusing to meet Aggie teams in any branch of sport and especially football. Leigh was injured when trying to catch a forward pass.

Statements authorized issued as a result of the Denver conference are:

From Agricultural College.

I have been at some pains to investigate the sources and grounds of certain statements which have been given much currency during the past year by the Fort Collins and the Denver papers, statements which involve the athletic integrity of Colorado college, its management, coach and players. I am convinced that these statements were without foundation and regret that any credence has been given to them.

Since Colorado college has evidently suffered from the statements referred to, it is but just that her title to clean athletics should be cleared from all shadow.

Findings of Committees.

We the undersigned representatives of the Colorado Agricultural college and of Colorado college having made a most careful examination into the conduct of the athletics in the two institutions, are convinced that the rumors which have circulated so widely during the past year and have endangered the cordial relations of the two institutions are entirely without foundation and that the coaches and teams of the institutions have strictly observed the rules of the conference and have shown in their work the spirit of true sportsmanship.

"We pledge ourselves to do all in our power to clear away the misunderstandings which may exist between the institutions by a frank statement of the facts to the students and faculty of each and we will furthermore use our influence to prevent in the future any thing which can in any way be construed by either institution as discourtesy.

Terrible Picture of Suffering

Clinton, Ky. Mrs. M. C. McElroy, in a letter from Clinton, writes: "For six years I was a sufferer from female troubles. I could not eat, and could not stand on my feet without suffering great pain. Three of the best doctors in the state said I was in a critical condition and going down hill. I lost hope. After using Cardui a week I began to improve. Now I feel better than in six years." Fifty years of success in actual practice is positive proof that Cardui can always be relied on for relieving female weakness and disease. Why not test it for yourself? Sold by all druggists. Adv.

COMMISSIONERS FIGURE COUNTY LEVY 19.28 MILLS

Meeting This Morning at Which Budget for Coming Year Probably Will Be Adopted

While the county commissioners made no official announcement of the tax levy for El Paso county, they have practically decided that it will be 19.28 mills. The commissioners probably will meet this morning to prepare the 1914 budget [illegible] the levy. The matter has [illegible] to a great extent [illegible] divisions of the county [illegible] which have been slow in [illegible] the estimate of their needs. The last of the estimates was received [illegible] day.

As near the the county commissioners can estimate the levy [illegible] the county will be as follows: Colorado Springs [illegible] mills, [illegible] 4.58, bonds .60, interest on [illegible] general school fund, 1.67, [illegible] sessment 1.20, county expenses [illegible].

It had been suggested that the [illegible] probably would be 20 mills [illegible] the commissioners have tried [illegible] that low. They started the process of figuring considering the levy [illegible] mills. Gradually the estimates [illegible] the proposed levy to be raised until now it is estimated that it will be 19.28 mills.

EVERY MINING CAMP TO SEND REPRESENTATIVES

Meeting to Be Held in Cripple Creek January 1 to Discuss State's Metal Mining Industry.

Creation of a sound and sane organization for the development of the metal mining industry in Colorado is the purpose of a meeting to be held in Cripple Creek January 1. Every mining camp in the state will be represented and it is the intention of the promoters of the plan to have as many miners as possible attend. The official call for the meeting will be sent out within a few days.

Initial instructions will "tell the mining man that there will be a gathering of members of his craft to decide upon a permanent organization. No other industry will be permitted to become a member. Informal discussions of the new union have been going on for a year. It has been heard in the great barrens above timber line and down in the depths of the mines over Colorado.

The organization will work for the development of resources. The man that mucks a little prospect will have the same rights as has the millionaire owner. The two extremes will fraternize and talk over what is best for all.

Every district will be responsible for its membership of metal mining people. There is very little chance for the undesirables getting in. The real basis of the organization is to get together and further every branch of metal mining in Colorado. Strength is what the new association will mean and power to promote metal mining in Colorado.

COURT DECISION MEANS BIG SAVING TO ESTATE

Ruling in Suit of Mrs Cobb for Interest on Stratton Legacy Ends Similar Claims.

A decision handed down by the supreme court in Denver Monday sustaining the county court here in denying the claim of Virginia Stratton Cobb against the Stratton estate for $13,560 interest on a legacy means a saving of about $200,000 to the estate. Mrs. Cobb, a sister of Winfield Scott Stratton, was left $50,000 in his will. Stratton died in 1902, but the legacy was not paid until 1907 and Mrs. Cobb based her claim for interest on that amount on the ground that the legacy became due and payable one year after Stratton's death, also that if the interest was not recoverable, that she was entitled to the earnings on the legacy measured by the legal rate of interest during that period.

The supreme court held that the common law is not applicable in this case as there is a specific statute in the state which declares that a legacy is only due or payable after it has been judicially determined by the court having the estate in charge.

It is pointed out that had Mrs. Cobb won the suit that a dozen or more others who were large beneficiaries under Stratton's will, some of whom have also tried to collect interest on the legacies, would likewise have profited. The total of these claims, it is estimated would have amounted to more than $200,000.

EXPECTED THAT WOMAN OFFICER WILL BE NAMED

Beginning January 1, 1914, Colorado Springs and El Paso county will no doubt have a policewoman. While no definite announcement has been made, Judge W. P. Kinney of the county court, in whose hands the matter rests, said last night that he had advised the county commissioners 10 days ago that a woman police would be appointed. Judge Kinney would not state positively last night that he would make the appointment, but said that he had not recalled the statement made to the county commissioners.

The city council included in the 1914 budget an appropriation of $600 to pay half the salary of a woman official. Under the mothers' compensation act, the county is entitled to two juvenile officers, and it is expected that the county's share of the expense of the woman officer will come out of that fund. Judge Kinney has the power to appoint a second juvenile officer for El Paso county and will probably do so, the city and county sharing the expense of her salary.

YEAR 1913 ADDS MUCH TO FINE ARTS COLLETIONS

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The year 1913 will have an unusual record to contribute to the history of fine arts in this country. This fact is brought to the fore by the death yesterday of George A. Hearn, the third multimillionaire art collector to die during the year and promises to enrich the Metropolitan museum of art with priceless treasures which may be roughly estimated above $100,000,000 value in all.

The deaths of J. P. Morgan on March 31 and of Benjamin Altman, a New York merchant prince, on October 7, are the other instances disclosing the vast extent into which wealthy Americans have lately indulged in the private collection of art objects.

Mr. Hearn during his life has presented to the Metropolitan museum 50 paintings, 30 of which are of the American school, in which he was particularly interested that he founded an endowment fund of $150,000 for the purchase of works by American artists. In his home there is still large private collections of valuable paintings and carved ivories as well as a remarkable collection of jades which it is expected are bequeathed to his wife with the probable provision that on her death they will be added to the Hearn gifts to the Metropolitan museum.

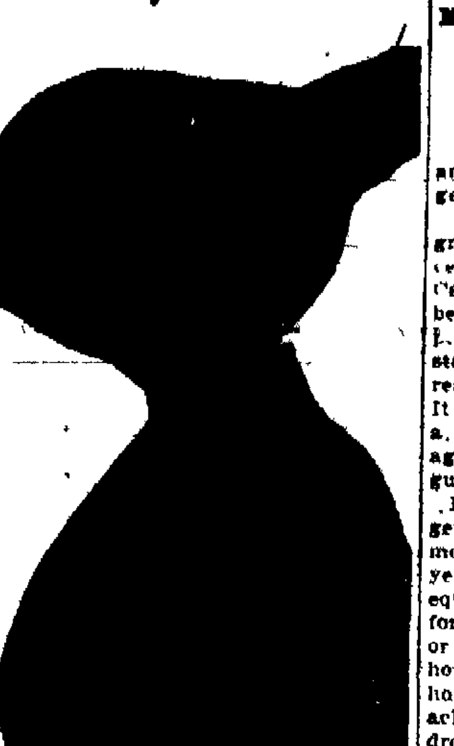
ACTRESSES ARE NOT LOUD DRESSERS BUT CREATORS OF FASHION, SAYS COMEDY STAR

Miss Olive Vail Takes Exception to Charge of Society Matron



MISS OLIVE VAIL

Miss Olive Vail who has endeared herself to lovers of musical comedy throughout the country by her clever work and brilliant successes in the past few years is conceded to be one of the best dressed women on the American stage. When shown an article by Mrs. John W. Robbins in which the latter referred to the fact that women nowaday wear dresses on the streets which make you think they are chorus girls or theatrical performers she said:

"I do not like to criticize anybody, but why it is that a woman like Mrs. Robbins, whom I do not know but whom I assume to be an intelligent and charming gentlewoman, cares to speak so unkindly of those of us who have chosen the stage as our profession. If Mrs. Robbins attends a theater, she must surely notice that of necessity we actresses must use beautiful lines and beautiful costumes in our acts, otherwise we would be freakish and droll—we must look our best always on the stage and off the stage.

"And off," Miss Vail repeated with a puzzled expression, as if the idea of looking otherwise than charming off the stage had never occurred to her. "And off! Certainly off! Do you think I want people to point to me when I am on the street and say, 'There goes Olive Vail, the actress—how crudely, how ugly she dresses.' That is not what we want: we want always to be ladylike and modest in our appearance. If we were not so by nature, we should have to be so from a business standpoint. The actress who wishes always the sensations lasts only so long as her individual sensations—and I believe this is true in other things as well as the theatrical profession."

"The Girl From Mumms" with Miss Vail in the title role, will be heard at the Opera house next Saturday and Colorado Springs women will have an opportunity to judge for themselves the truth of her assertions.

GIRL AND STEPFATHER ARE GUILTY OF MURDER

CROWLEY, La., Dec. 2.—Dora Murff, 18 years old, was found guilty of manslaughter and her stepfather, J. S. Duvall, was convicted of first degree murder without capital punishment here today. They were charged with the killing of J. M. Delhaye, Miss Murff's sweetheart. Allie Duvall, the girl's half-brother, was acquitted.

When the verdict was announced by a jury that had been in session most of the night, the slender, nervous Murff girl, who had sought to take all responsibility for the killing, broke down.

Delhaye was killed by a charge from a shotgun, as he walked on the street here. Near by was a carriage in which Miss Murff and the two Duvalls were riding. The girl leaped to the dying Delhaye's side, shot him twice with a pistol and asserted she had killed him.

It was on this statement that she sought to shield her kinsmen for blame and hoped to be freed on the "unwritten law" plea.

The prosecution, however, introduced two witnesses who said they saw James Duvall fire the shotgun and it was proved this charge killed Delhaye.

'WIDOW CASE' TO BE TRIED

the case by Colorado Springs people both because of the nature of the suit and the strange story told by the Leadville woman. Several threats to sue the executors have been made by women claiming to be Stratton's widow, but this case is the first which has been taken into the courts.

Claims Marriage in 1874.

Mrs. Kennedy claims she was married to W. S. Stratton on New Years day, 1874, in her native county of San Augustine, Texas. She was at that time a rich widow by the name of Sarah N. Poor, and claims that about a year after her marriage Stratton obtained from her $10,000 with which to buy cattle in the Texas Panhandle country. He left her with that intention and she declares, never returned. Giving him up for dead, Mrs. Kennedy says she married a man named Kennedy in 1889. He died some years later and in 1895 she went to Leadville where she heard her alleged husband, W. S. Stratton, was in the Cripple Creek district.

The woman claims she went to the gold camp and met Stratton. He promised her one-half the proceeds from the sale of the Stratton Independence mine, she claims. Stratton realized about $10,000,000 net profit from the sale.

The trustees scout the idea that the woman is Stratton's widow. Stratton was married only once, Dr. Rice claims that being in July, 1876, in this county. The girl's name was Zura V. Stewart. Speaking of the case, Dr. Rice said:

Several Alleged Widows.

"We are satisfied that the present case is like that of several other alleged widows, who at different times threatened to bring suit against the estate."

The contention of the executors will be that Winfred Scott Stratton was not in Texas at the time the woman claims to have married him or during any of the several years immediately preceding and following the year named.

One of the most interesting bits of data collected by the executors is a certified copy of a contract between Mrs. Kennedy and R. L. Parker of Texas, in which she agrees to give the Texan one-fourth of all she may receive through a suit against the estate in return for which he agrees, it is said, to swear that he issued the license to Stratton to marry her.

ISSUE CLEAN CUT

The meeting was held in the ballroom of the Adams hotel.

"About forty were present among whom were former State Senator John B. Stephen, City Attorney J. N. Stevens, W. J. L. Crank, C. A. Irwin, and other lawyers and business men.

"The protest meeting was the result of an informal conference of party leaders in Denver last week in which it was agreed that E. P. Costigan, the Progressive candidate for governor last year, should lead the party in the state again next fall.

Party Leaders Referred To.

"No names were mentioned, but the resolutions referred specifically to party leaders who hold party chairmanships and offices.

The preamble charged that since the organization of the Progressive party in Colorado 'various party officials have constituted themselves so-called leaders' and at different times have undertaken to dictate who shall be candidates for office and who shall not be candidates." By 'party leaders' is meant party bosses, according to the resolution.

Party chairmen, it is charged, have violated the letter and spirit of the Progressive party principles.

"The resolution then demands immediate action along the lines of upbuilding the party, not 'office grabbing.' It denounces 'actions of dictation by self-constituted bosses in the Progressive party as being more criminal than similar actions ever were in the older parties.'

"The resolution calls upon all Progressives to join in the work of reorganizing the party in Colorado along the lines of the national platform. It specifies that no reflection is meant for individuals alone. The tariff revision is declared a menace, particularly the sugar reductions.

Speeches were made by Stephen, Stevens, Crank, who introduced the resolution, John E. Deet, C. A. Irwin, John Horne Chiles and others. Several Republican politicians were present.

The speeches were closely in sympathy with the resolution. The speakers dwelt especially upon the necessity for restoring the protective tariff on sugar, wool, lead, zinc and other products in which this state is interested.

"The state administration was criticized for its manner of handling its party pledges and its handling of the coal strike situation.

Scores Party "Bosses."

"An industrial commission to regulate trusts scientifically is advocated. A revision of the tax laws of the state is demanded and the actions of the Colorado tax commission declared an outrage. Industrial conflicts are deplored and a just and firm method of procedure to prevent strikes and lockouts recommended.

Voters Invited to Cooperate.

Voters who wish to establish business prosperity in the state are invited to cooperate along these lines regardless of past party affiliations.

"The speakers were more are ... in demanding a combination, but not a fusion, with the Republicans.

"The resolution closes as follows:

"'All voters who wish to restore business prosperity in the state should be given an opportunity to cooperate along these lines and to accomplish the purposes recited in the preamble to these resolutions, and with that purpose in view we denounce as inimical to the best interests of the state and the Progressive party any efforts of petty politicians of the "rule or ruin" variety who lend aid to the state's commercial destroyers, by advocating either candidates or policies that are not in harmony with the desires of the Centennial state in a restoration of prosperity.'"

COAL COST INVESTIGATING

for the committee, suggested that four points be investigated. They were the quality of coal delivered in Colorado Springs, the quantity of the coal, the amount that is paid for mining, the cost of production and the cost of distribution from the mine. Mayor Mc-Kesson suggested that if the committee found that it would not be feasible for the city to operate a mine, it might be a good plan to contract with some coal operator for the entire output of his mine.

Mr. Curtis, in his opening talk, said that he could see no reason why the city should operate a municipal coal mine.

"I cannot see why the city should operate a coal mine any more than it should take hold of the other industries," he said. "By getting a municipal coal mine, we would start a movement which might eliminate the middleman entirely in many of the branches of business in the city."

Fair Investigation Proposed

J. K. Radley, one of the representatives of the Federated Trades council, pointed out that the principal business of the committee was to make a fair and impartial investigation of the coal mining industry and the business of selling coal to the citizens of Colorado Springs. He said that the majority of the people of the city do not know the real facts. He said that the committee was appointed to make investigations whether or not the prices being charged for coal were or were not legitimate, and to find out whether or not the condition could be remedied by the city operating a coal mine.

Thomas E. Thomas said that within a year, bituminous coal has sold for as little as $4.25 a ton, while the present price charged is $7.50. He said that the price of lignite coal has advanced from $3.50 to $4.50 since the coal strike. In explaining the advance in the price of bituminous coal Mr. Bowers said:

"I can personally cite one example that will explain the advance in the price of bituminous coal. For some time, my company has owned a small coal mine in the Walsenburg district. The mine has not been a paying investment and last summer I would have sold the mine—worth $25,000—for $6,000. I could get no buyer. When the strike in the southern fields began I signed with the union and have operated the mine. I had lost money for several months on it and now I have a chance to get even again. Bituminous coal is being bought by the dealers now at $4 per ton in at Colorado Springs.

Shrinkage Adds to Cost.

"It costs 16 cents a ton to unload from the cars and costs 75 cents a ton to deliver the coal ... In addition to that, a ton of coal shrinks from 300 to 400 pounds to the ton, from the time it leaves the mine until it arrives at the consumer's. Part of this shrinkage is due to the fact that all the coal is ... Colorado Springs."

In answer to many arguments advanced to discredit his contention that a municipal coal mine would be an advantage, Mr. Thomas declared he would produce proofs of ... it is he has ... throughout the ...

The meetings will be ... public, although ... of the committee ... to look at the ... which was ... by the ...

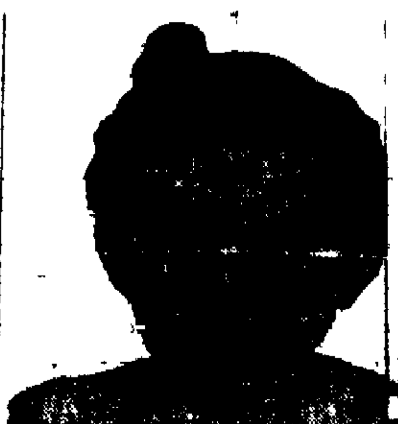
Remedy Used By Three Generations

Mothers Used It When Children Now Giving It to Their Children



WM. ROSWELL TAYLOR

There must be genuine merit to an article that has stood the test of two generations of users.

In the field of medicine none has had greater success, nor retained that success to a greater degree, than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is now being used by three generations of people. Its use in families is constantly becoming more general. The reason, primarily, is that it has merit. It is what it represents itself to be, a laxative-tonic. It does not make exaggerated claims nor use coarse language to set forth its virtues.

It is a medicine, but so mild and gentle a medicine that thousands of mothers give it to tiny infants, and yet, in a slightly larger dose, it is equally effective for grown-ups. It is for any disorder of the stomach, liver or bowels, for constipation no matter how chronic, for dyspepsia no matter how severe, for biliousness, sour stomach, gas on the stomach, headaches, drowsiness after eating and similar complaints arising from a clogged-up condition of the bowels. It is pleasant to the taste and does not gripe. It can be used with safety and good results by anyone at any age or in any condition of health, and that person's health will improve. Every druggist sells it and the price is only fifty cent and one dollar a bottle.

Thousands of families throughout the country are never without Pepsin in the house, among them W. A. Taylor, 717 Lincoln Ave., ...loit, Wis. She has five children ... gives Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin ... all of them as needed. Little W... used to cry half the night ... cramps and pain, but since being ... Syrup Pepsin he does so no ... PRESIDENT WILSON READS HIS ANNUAL MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

One of Most Important State Documents on Record; Short, but to the Point

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—President Wilson's message to congress in full, is as follows:

Gentlemen of the Congress:

In pursuance of my constitutional duty to "give to the congress information of the state of the Union," I take the liberty of addressing you on several matters which ought, as it seems to me, particularly to engage the attention of your honorable bodies, as of all who study the welfare and progress of the nation.

I shall ask your indulgence if I venture to depart in some degree from the usual custom of setting before you in formal review the many matters which have engaged the attention and called for the action of the several departments of the government or which look to them for early treatment in the future, because the list is long, very long, and would suffer in the abbreviation to which I should have to subject it. I shall submit to you the reports of the heads of the several departments in which these subjects are set forth in careful detail, and beg that they may receive the thoughtful attention of your committees and of all members of the congress who may have the leisure to study them. Their obvious importance, as constituting the very substance of the business of the government, makes comment and emphasis on my part unnecessary.

The country, I am thankful to say, is at peace with all the world, and many happy manifestations multiply about us of a growing cordiality and sense of community of interest among the nations, foreshadowing an age of settled peace and good will. More and more readily each decade do the nations manifest their willingness to bind themselves by solemn treaty to the processes of peace, the processes of frank counsel and fair concession. So far the United States has stood at the front of such negotiations. She will, I earnestly hope and confidently believe, give fresh proof of her sincere adherence to the cause of international friendship by ratifying the several treaties of arbitration awaiting renewal by the senate. In addition to these, it has been the privilege of the department of state to gain the assent, in principle, of no less than 31 nations, representing four-fifths of the population of the world, to the negotiation of treaties by which it shall be agreed that whenever differences of interest or of policy arise which cannot be resolved by the ordinary processes of diplomacy they shall be publicly analyzed, discussed, and reported upon by a tribunal chosen by the parties before either nation determines its course of action.

There is only one possible standard by which to determine controversies between the United States and other nations, and that is compounded of these two elements: Our own honor and our obligations to the peace of the world. A test so compounded ought easily to be made to govern both the establishment of new treaty obligations and the interpretation of those already assumed.

There is but one cloud upon our horizon. That has shown itself to the south of us, and hangs over Mexico. There can be no certain prospect of peace in America until General Huerta has surrendered his usurped authority in Mexico, until it is understood on all hands, indeed that such pretended governments will not be countenanced or dealt with by the government of the United States. We are the friends of constitutional government in America, we are more than its friends, we are its champions; because in no other way can our neighbors, to whom we would wish in every way to make proof of our friendship, work out their own development in peace and liberty. Mexico has no government. The attempt to maintain one at the City of Mexico has broken down, and a mere military despotism has been set up which has hardly more than the semblance of national authority. It originated in the usurpation of Victoriano Huerta who, after a brief attempt to play the part of constitutional president, has at last cast aside even the pretense of legal right and declared himself dictator. As a consequence, a condition of affairs now exists in Mexico which has made it doubtful whether even the most elementary and fundamental rights either of her own people or of the citizens of other countries resident within her territory can long be successfully safeguarded, and which threatens, if long continued, to imperil the interests of peace, order and tolerable life in the lands immediately to the south of us. Even if the usurper had succeeded in his purposes, in despite of the constitution of the republic and the rights of its people, he would have set up nothing but a precarious and hateful power which could have lasted but a little while, and whose eventual downfall would have left the country in a more deplorable condition than ever. But he has not succeeded. He has forfeited the respect and the moral support even of those who were at one time willing to see him succeed. Little by little he has been completely isolated. By a little every day his power and prestige are crumbling and the collapse is not far away. We shall not, I believe, be obliged to alter our policy of watchful waiting. And then, when the end comes, we shall hope to see constitutional order restored in distressed Mexico by the concert and energy of such of her leaders as prefer the liberty of their people to their own ambitions.

I turn to matters of domestic concern. You already have under consideration a bill for the reform of our system of banking and currency, for which the country waits with impatience, as for something fundamental to its whole business life and necessary to set credit free from arbitrary and artificial restraints. I need not say how earnestly I hope for its early enactment into law. I take leave to beg that the whole energy and attention of the senate be concentrated upon it till the matter is successfully disposed of. And yet I feel that the request is not needed, that the members of that great house need no urging in this service to the country.

I present to you, in addition, the urgent necessity that special provision be made also for facilitating the credits needed by the farmers of the country. The pending currency bill does the farmers a great service. It puts them upon an equal footing with other business men and masters of enterprise, as it should; and upon its passage they will find themselves quit of many of the difficulties which now hamper them in the field of credit. The farmers, of course, ask and should be given no special privilege, such as extending to them the credit of the government itself. What they need and should obtain is legislation which will make their own abundant and substantial credit resources available as a foundation for joint, concerted local action in their own behalf in getting the capital they must use. It is to this we should now address ourselves.

It has, singularly enough, come to pass that we have allowed the industry of our farms to lag behind the other activities of the country in its development. I need not stop to tell you how fundamental to the life of the nation is the production of its food. Our thoughts may ordinarily be concentrated upon the cities and the hives of industry, upon the cries of the crowded market place and the clangor of the factory, but it is from the quiet interspaces of the open valleys and the free hillsides that we draw the sources of life and of prosperity, from the farm and the ranch, from the forest and the mine. Without these every street would be silent, every office deserted, every factory fallen into disrepair. And yet the farmer does not stand upon the same footing with the forester and the miner in the market of credit. He is the servant of the seasons. Nature determines how long he must wait for his crops, and will not be hurried in her processes. He may give his note, but the season of its maturity depends upon the season when his crop matures, lies at the gates of the market where his products are sold. And the security he gives is of a character not known in the broker's office or as familiarly as it might be on the counter of the banker.

The agricultural department of the government is seeking to assist as never before to make farming an efficient business, of wide cooperative effort, in quick touch with the markets for foodstuffs. The farmers and the government will henceforth work together as real partners in this field, where we now begin to see our way very clearly and where many intelligent plans are already being put into execution. The treasury of the United States has, by a timely and well considered distribution of its deposits, facilitated the moving of the crops in the present season and prevented the scarcity of available funds too often experienced at such times. But we must not allow ourselves to depend upon extraordinary expedients. We must add the means by which the farmer may make his credit constantly and easily available and command when he will the capital by which to support and expand his business. We lag behind many other great countries of the modern world in attempting to do this. Systems of rural credit have been studied and developed on the other side of the water while we left our farmers to shift for themselves in the ordinary money market. You have but to look about you in any rural district to see the result, the handicap and embarrassment which have been put upon those who produce our food.

Conscious of this backwardness and neglect on our part, the congress recently authorized the creation of a special commission to study the various systems of rural credit which have been put into operation in Europe, and this commission is already prepared to report. Its report ought to make it easier for us to determine what methods will be best suited to our own farmers. I hope and believe that the committees of the senate and house will address themselves to this matter with the most fruitful results, and I believe that the studies and recently formed plans of the department of agriculture may be made to serve them very greatly in their work of framing appropriate and adequate legislation. It would be indiscreet and presumptuous in anyone to dogmatize upon so great and many sided a question, but I feel confident that common counsel will produce the results we must all desire.

Turn from the farm to the world of business which centers in the city and in the factory, and I think that all thoughtful observers will agree that the immediate service we owe the business communities of the country is to prevent private monopoly more effectually than it has yet been prevented. I think it will be easily agreed that we should let the Sherman antitrust law stand, unaltered, as it is, with its debatable ground about it, but that we should as much as possible reduce the area of that debatable ground by further and more explicit legislation; and should also supplement that great act by legislation which will not only clarify it but also facilitate its administration and make it fairer to all concerned. No doubt we shall all wish, and the country will expect, this to be the central subject of our deliberations during the present session; but it is a subject so many-sided and so deserving of careful and discriminating discussion that I shall take the liberty of addressing you upon it in a special message at a later date than this. It is of capital importance that the business men of this country should be relieved of all uncertainties of law with regard to their enterprises and investments and a clear path indicated which they can travel without anxiety. It is as important that they should be relieved of embarrassment and set free to prosper as that private monopoly should be destroyed. The ways of action should be thrown wide open.

I turn to a subject which I hope can be handled promptly and without serious controversy of any kind. I mean the method of selecting nominees for the presidency of the United States. I feel confident that I do not misinterpret the wishes or the expectations of the country when I urge the prompt enactment of legislation which will provide for primary elections throughout the country at which the voters of the several parties may choose their nominees for the presidency without the intervention of nominating conventions. I venture the suggestion that this legislation should provide for the retention of party conventions, but only for the purpose of declaring and accepting the verdict of the primaries and formulating the platforms of the parties; and I suggest that these conventions should consist not of delegates chosen for this single purpose, but of the nominees for congress, the nominees for vacant seats in the senate of the United States, the senators whose terms have not yet closed, the national committees and the candidates for the presidency themselves, in order that platforms may be framed by those responsible to the people for carrying them into effect.

These are all matters of vital domestic concern, and besides them, outside the charmed circle of our own national life in which our affections command us, as well as our consciences, there stand out our obligations toward our territories over sea. Here we are trustees. Porto Rico, Hawaii, the Philippines, are ours, indeed, but not ours to do what we please with. Such territories, once regarded as mere possessions, are no longer to be selfishly exploited; they are part of the domain of public conscience and of serviceable and enlightened statesmanship. We must administer them for the people who live in them and with the same sense of responsibility to them as toward our own people in our domestic affairs. No doubt we shall successfully enough bind Porto Rico and the Hawaiian islands to ourselves by ties of justice and interest and affection, but the performance of our duty toward the Philippines is a more difficult and debatable matter. We can satisfy the obligations of generous justice toward the people of Porto Rico by giving them the ample and familiar rights and privileges accorded our own citizens in our own territories and our obligations toward the people of Hawaii by perfecting the provisions for self-government already granted them, but in the Philippines we must go further. We must hold steadily in view their ultimate independence, and we must move toward the time of that independence as steadily as the way can be cleared and the foundations thoughtfully and permanently laid.

Acting under the authority conferred upon the president by congress, I have already accorded the people of the islands a majority in both houses of their legislative body by appointing five instead of four native citizens to the membership of the commission. I believe that in this way we shall make proof of their capacity in counsel and their sense of responsibility in the exercise of political power, and that the success of this step will be sure to clear our view for the steps which are to follow. Step by step we should extend and perfect the system of self-government in the islands, making test of them and modifying them as experience discloses their successes and their failures; that we should more and more put under the control of the native citizens of the archipelago the essential instruments of their life, their local instrumentalities of government, their schools, all the common interests of their communities, and so by counsel and experience set up a government which all the world will see to be suitable to a people whose affairs are under their own control. At last, I hope and believe, we are beginning to gain the confidence of the Filipino peoples. By their counsel and experience, rather than by our own, we shall learn how best to serve them and how soon it will be possible and wise to withdraw our supervision. Let us once find the path and set out with firm and confident tread upon it and we shall not wander from it or linger upon it.

A duty faces us with regard to Alaska which seems to me very pressing and very imperative; perhaps I should say a double duty, for it concerns both the political and the material development of the territory. The people of Alaska should be given the full territorial form of government, and Alaska, as a storehouse, should be unlocked. One key to it is a system of railways. These the government should build itself and administer and the ports and terminals it should control in the interest of all who wish to use them for the service and development of the country and its people.

But the construction of railways is only the first step, is only thrusting in the key to the storehouse and throwing back the lock and opening the door. How the tempting resources of the country are to be exploited is another matter, to which I shall take the liberty of from time to time calling your attention, for it is a policy which must be worked out by well considered stages, not upon theory, but upon the lines of practical expediency. It is part of our general problem of conservation. We have a freer hand in working out the problem in Alaska than in the states of the Union; and yet the principle and object are the same wherever we touch it. We must use the resources of the country, not lock them up. There need be no conflict or jealousy as between state and federal authorities, for there can be no essential difference of purpose between them. The resources in question must be used, but not destroyed or wasted; used, but not monopolized upon any narrow idea of individual rights as against the abiding interests of communities. That a policy can be worked out by conference and concession which will release these resources and yet not jeopard or dissipate them, I for one have no doubt; and it can be done on lines of regulation which need be no less acceptable to the people and governments of the states concerned than to the people and government of the nation at large, whose heritage these resources are. We must bend our counsels to this end. A common purpose ought to make agreement easy.

Three or four matters of special importance and significance I beg that you will permit me to mention in closing.

Our bureau of mines ought to be equipped and empowered to render even more effectual service than it renders now in improving the conditions of mine labor and making the mines more economically productive as well as more safe. This is an all-important part of the work of conservation; and the conservation of human life and energy lies even nearer to our interest than the preservation from waste of our material resources.

We owe it, in mere justice to the railway employes of the country, to provide for them a fair and effective employers' liability act; and a law that we can stand by in this matter will be no less to the advantage of those who administer the railroads of the country than to the advantage of those whom they employ. The experience of a large number of the states abundantly proves that.

We ought to devote ourselves to meeting pressing demands of plain justice like this as earnestly as to the accomplishment of political and economic reforms. Social justice comes first. Law is the machinery for its realization and is vital only as it expresses and embodies it.

An international congress for the discussion of all questions that affect safety at sea is now sitting in London at the suggestion of our own government. So soon as the conclusions of that congress can be learned and considered we ought to address ourselves, among other things, to the prompt alleviation of the very unsafe, unjust and burdensome conditions which now surround the employment of sailors and render it extremely difficult to obtain the services of spirited and competent men such as every ship needs if it is to be safely handled and brought to port.

May I not express the very real pleasure I have experienced in cooperating with this congress and sharing with it the labors of common service to which it has devoted itself so unreservedly during the past seven months of uncomplaining concentration upon the business of legislation. Surely it is a proper and pertinent part of my report on the state of the Union to express my admiration for the diligence, the good temper and the full comprehension of public duty which has already been manifested by both the houses; and I hope that it may not be deemed an impertinent intrusion of myself into the picture if I say with how much and how constant satisfaction I have availed myself of the privilege of putting my time and energy at their disposal alike in counsel and in action.

A SOUR STOMACH GAS, INDIGESTION

"Pape's Diapepsin" ends all Stomach distress in five minutes. Time it!

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache, you can get blessed relief in five minutes.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why they relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. Pape's Diapepsin is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but what will please you most is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many Pape's Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gases, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion in five minutes.—Adv.

PRESIDENT WILSON TALKS

recognize it as the utterance of a statesman regardless of whether he agrees with its details.

All Indorse Mexican Policy.

Of particular significance was one demonstration of applause regarded in the national capital tonight the unmistakable approval that greeted the president's remarks:

"There can be no certain prospect of peace in America until General Huerta has surrendered his usurped authority in Mexico." Among those who would discuss the message in congress there was a general indorsement of the administration policy toward Mexico.

The scene of today's function was much the same as on the three previous occasions when President Wilson has addressed congress; galleries crowded with men and women of importance in public affairs, members of the cabinet, the diplomatic corps and the white house family.

Democrats Enthusiastic

Democratic leaders were enthusiastic in their comments on the message and its recommendations. They liked the emphasis placed by the president on the need for early action on the currency, for dealing with monopoly through legislation, the importance of rural credit legislation to benefit the farmers of the nation, the recommendations of the government construction of railroads in Alaska, the development of the nation's resources by a conservation policy alike acceptable to the states and the federal authorities, the enactment of employers liability legislation and the selection of presidential candidates by the primary system.

The suggestion of the president that party conventions as at present constituted be abolished won striking applause. As Mr. Wilson declared the party convention should be held only to ratify the verdict of preference primaries, that the personnel of the conventions should be for the most part chosen from those members of congress and congressional nominees upon whom would devolve the duty of carrying out platform pledges, there was a wave of handclapping in which Secretary Bryan and members of the cabinet joined.

Statesmanlike Speech—Clark.

"It was a fine statesmanlike speech," said Speaker Clark afterwards, "covering points I have been agitating for years, particularly presidential primaries."

"I think," said Representative Underwood, "the president's message was the address of a broad statesman, covering the scope of the necessary legislative action for the session of congress. It was in accord with the principles and policies of our party as declared at Baltimore, and I have no doubt it will meet with favorable action by the house of representatives."

For nearly all of the legislation outlined in the message, the ground work has been laid and the president plans to speak further to congress with relation to antitrust reforms. Alaskan railroad legislation is now before both houses, a workman's compensation act has been favorably considered in each house and bills on the other important subjects are in a position to receive immediate attention.

The declaration for legislation to provide for primary elections for presidential nominees without the intervention of nominating conventions bore immediate fruit in the house. Representative Rucker of Missouri, chairman of house committee on privileges and elections, tonight began framing a bill to cover all the president's suggestions. He will introduce it immediately with a view to getting action by his committee before the Christmas holidays if possible. Interest in this recommendation was manifested in both houses. Several bills of this character have been introduced in the senate and advocated on the floor by Republicans and Progressives.

UGH! NOT CALOMEL, OIL OR SALTS, TAKE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS"

Delicious "fruit laxative" cleanses stomach, liver and bowels

A harmless cure for sick headache, biliousness, sour stomach, constipation, indigestion, coated tongue, sallowness—take "California Syrup of Figs." For the cause of all such misery comes from a torpid liver and sluggish bowels.

A tablespoonful tonight means all constipation poison, waste matter, fermenting food and sour bile gently moved out of your system by morning without griping. Please don't think of "California Syrup of Figs" as a physic. Don't think you are drugging yourself or your children, because this delicious fruit laxative can not cause injury. Even the most delicate child can take it as safely as a robust man. It is the most harmless, effective stomach, liver and bowel cleanser, regulator and tonic ever devised.

Your only difficulty may be in getting the genuine; so ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the California Fig Syrup company. This city has many counterfeit fig syrups, so watch out.—Adv.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

EAT LESS MEAT IF YOU FEEL BACKACHY OR HAVE BLADDER TROUBLE

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.—Adv.

Break Away from the Big Three

Nothing is more monotonous than the monotony of meat, bread and potatoes alone three times a day.

Cripple Creek Mines

DANTE IS MINING HIGH GRADE ORE

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec 2—The Dante mine on the southwestern slope of Bull hill, owned by the Dante Gold Mining company, and operated under lease by Edwin Gaylord is producing heavy tonnage of milling ore and in mining this ore for treatment in the Gaylord mill, high-grade ore is being extracted and shipped to local sampling plants for consignment to the smelter.

The mill last month treated between 1,300 and 1,400 tons of low-grade mill ore, and while the average value will probably not exceed $3.50 per ton, the plant is operating at profit, but in addition three cars shipped to the Eagle Sampling company's plant, on Battle mountain, near Goldfield have shown a gold content classing the ore as of smelting grade. Two cars of screenings brought settlement at better than five ounces gold or $100 to the ton, and a 30-ton car of coarse quartz sampled gave results of better than $40 or two ounces gold to the ton.

Superintendent Reid broke into ore of commercial value by upraise on the main Dante vein, and the conditions generally promise increased production and corresponding profits to the lessee and owning corporation.

CONCENTRATION PLANT PLANNED FOR VINDICATOR

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 2.—Excavation work has been commenced by the Vindicator Consolidated Gold Mining company, on the site for the new concentrating plant to be erected east of the Vindicator No. 1 or main shaft, or the ground at one time occupied by the Lillie shaft, and later by an experimental milling plant.

The new plant, it is learned, will have a capacity of 200 tons daily, and is to be constructed under the plans prepared and supervision of Edward P. Wiard of Denver, as consulting engineer.

Conditions at the Vindicator mine are reported highly encouraging, the ore bodies opened up and under development in the deeper levels, more especially in the deepest level 1,650 feet from the surface are showing up strong and the ore mined is holding to the high general average value that has persistently obtained.

Lessees on the outlying shafts, and leasing blocks are maintaining the normal production, and the exploitation work carried on has resulted in the exposure of hitherto unknown ore bodies, now under development.

The Vindicator Gold Mining company during 1913 has paid four quarterly dividends at the rate of 3 cents per share or $45,000 each, a total for the year of $180,000, a grand total in dividends paid stockholders to date of $2,768,500.00.

LONDON WOOL AUCTION

LONDON, Dec 2—A miscellaneous assortment of 13,000 bales caused spirited competition at today's wool sales. Prices generally were firm. The finest grades of scoured merinos often sold at an advance of 5 per cent. Americans bought sparingly.

NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—More business was done in the first hour of today's stock market than during yesterday's entire session. All during the forenoon the market, led by coalers, displayed a degree of strength and activity such as has not been seen often of late. In the afternoon trading became quiet and gains were scaled down. Traders worked more confidently today on the long side and the success of their efforts drove the shorts to cover and brought in some outside buying. Boston houses bought largely of Steel and Amalgamated.

There was no important change in conditions to explain increased activity on the long side. Additional railroad reports for October were received, showing decreases in earnings. The November record of business failures disclosed an increase in number and liabilities. This market was called upon to absorb moderate offerings for London account.

President Wilson's message to congress was read after the vigorous upward movement of the day had come to an end, and the market made little response to it although the tendency thereafter was steadily downward. Wall street's interest in the message as a market factor was lessened by the fact that discussion of the trust question was reserved for a subsequent time.

The bond market was firm. Total sales par value $1,521,000.

United States bonds were unchanged on call.

CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec 2.—Black rust in Argentina and green bugs in Texas brought about a bulge today in the wheat market. Only a part of the effect, however, was lasting, the close being weak at an advance of ⅛c to ¼c net. Corn finished unchanged to ⅛c higher and oats the same as last night to ⅛@⅜c up, but provisions off 5@7½c to 27½c.

One of the largest houses in the wheat trade had direct cables telling of a spread of black rust in the central sections of Argentina. The pest was said to be general in that region. Damage from green bugs in Texas was declared to be manifesting itself in some of the largest producing counties. Besides, there were increased complaints of Hessian fly danger in Illinois, Michigan and Ohio.

Despite bearish reactions especially one shortly after the opening and another just before the close, wheat prices at no time went under last night's figures. Export sales had a sustaining influence and as also did a tightening on the holdings of soft winter grades in all winter crop centers. In addition, crop advices from India were adverse; receipts northwest of here were exceptionally small and the world's available supply showed a substantial falling off.

Soft weather delaying receipts tended to lift the price of corn. Advancing quotations at Missouri river points and at Liverpool aided the bulls. Profit taking by longs, however, served to restrict the advance. Elevator interests were after oats. The method pursued, the buying of December and selling of May, was not thought of as a disturbing character.

Warehouse stocks of provisions proved larger than expected, and a break in hog prices acted also as a weight on the market. Covering by shorts resulted in only a slight rally.

U. S. MAY RESTORE 487,000 ACRES OF LAND TO ENTRY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2—Secretary Lane has recommended to President Wilson the restoration to entry of about 487,000 acres in three counties in Washington. These lands were supposed to contain large coal deposits, but it has been found on examination by the United States geological survey that the deposits are insignificant. The land is located in Whatcom, Skagit and Lewis counties.

TERRORS TO BANQUET AT ACACIA TONIGHT

Captain of 1914 Football Team Will Be Elected by Squad

As a fitting climax to a most successful football season—and incidentally to seek revenge for weeks of strict training diet—the Colorado Springs High school Terrors will banquet tonight at the Acacia hotel. Six o'clock is the hour named, and from that time on the little Dutch room of the hostelry will present a scene far from common in local banquet halls.

Carlos M. Cole, superintendent of schools, Roscoe C. Hill, principal of the High school, members of the board of education—all will be seated around the festive board with "Doc" Acker and his squad of fighting gridiron stars. After the athletes and guests have dined, speeches will be in order, every one present being expectd to make a short talk.

The Terrors also will elect a 1914 football captain.

GIRLS MAKE RECORD TRIP

Two girl motorcyclists of San Diego, Cal, Miss Grace and Alice Selkurk, have made a new record for climbing Mount Wilson on a two-wheeler. Just 55 minutes from the time the girl riders left the foot of the toll road they had reached the summit of the mountain. The distance is nine miles and an altitude of 6,000 feet is reached. The Selkurk sisters made the return trip in 35 minutes.

FOUR WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP BOUTS TO BE STAGED WITHIN NEXT TWO MONTHS

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—Many an imposing program has been knocked galley-west by circumstances over which nobody in particular had control; but if Promoter Coffroth's luck holds good, he will place before his patrons this winter a feast of fistic tit-bits such as has never been equaled, let alone excelled.

Just fancy! Four world's championships in four consecutive months. If you disbelieve it, cast your eye over the schedule:

November—Jimmy Clabby and Frank Logan, middleweights.

December—Willie Ritchie and Tommy Murphy, lightweights.

January—Arthur Pelkey and Gunboat Smith, heavyweights.

February—Johnny Kilbane and Abe Attell, featherweights.

Of the first of these affairs—the Clabby-Logan bout—there doubtless will be a question as to whether the men are properly qualified to box for the 158-pound title. No matter what arguments may be advanced, however, it will be difficult to show that any other pair of middleweights have a better right.

Eddie McGoorty claimed the championship and Clabby gained a decision over McGoorty. Frank Klaus claimed it and Klaus was knocked out by George Chip. On these showings the issue lies between Clabby and Chip.

Middleweight Undecided.

The middleweight championship has been all heads and points anyway since Ketchel held it. Most of the boys have evinced a fondness for the short bout circuit and have shown little desire to bring the question of class superiority to a head.

Clabby probably has done more 20-round boxing than all the others put together and for this reason, if for no other, is looked upon as a worthy aspirant for the honors. In addition Jimmy has struck a winning gait and if he defeats stout-hearted Logan signally the writer is inclined to think that the public will be quite ready to respect Jimmy's championship claims.

As to what will hinge upon the Ritchie-Murphy match there is no chance of argument. Ritchie is the title holder by virtue of his victory over Ad Wolgast and while he had the somewhat unique distinction of gaining a championship through a blow that landed on himself instead of on the other fellow he has every right to sign himself champion and assume a champion's prerogatives.

Ritchie Some Shylock.

In business matters Ritchie can be depended upon to protect his own interests. In his matchmaking he has been accused of playing a safe game. Billy Nolan, with whom he quarreled, said with a suspicion of spleen: "The three men on Ritchie's list are Joe Rivers, Freddie Welsh and Leach Cross. He will give no one a match until he gets through with them."

The Cross and Rivers affairs took in accordance with Nolan's forecast and the Welsh bout fizzled out at Vancouver. Bad blood was engendered and it is doubtful if the Britisher and the native son will ever sit down to talk business again.

Ritchie promised months ago that he would box Tommy Murphy in San Francisco this winter and at this writing it looks as though he is going to keep his word. If he reneges he will earn bad opinions himself and he stands none too well with the followers of pugilism right now. If he gives Murphy the chance that it is generally admitted is coming to Tommy, he will end a great deal of adverse criticism that has been directed at him for quite a while.

Ritchie-Murphy Star Match.

A Ritchie-Murphy match will create as much furore in San Francisco as any of the important bouts that preceded it. It is recognized, of course, that we have no performers of the Joe Gans stamp nowadays, but the public is satisfied as long as it gets the best in the market.

Murphy and Ritchie are about the best the lightweight class boasts at present and for this reason interest in their meeting will be as keen as though they were on a par with crackerjacks of other years.

It is highly probable that Ritchie will be the favorite when betting begins, although this is not thereby certain. Both boys are at their best over a distance and there is nothing to choose between them on the score of pluck or staying power.

If one were to be guided by Ad Wolgast's comparison of Ritchie and Murphy he would be inclined to favor Murphy in the December bout. Ad had two fights with each of these lads and moved heaven and earth, in his attempts to secure a third trial with Ritchie. Even now Wolgast would jump at a chance to box the San Franciscan.

With Murphy it is a horse of another color so far as Wolgast is concerned. Not so long ago when Ad was pestering Coffroth to get Ritchie for him, Coffroth remarked: "And if I can't, how would another whirl with Tommy Murphy suit you?"

"Not at all," frankly blurted the wildcat. "Murphy is too infernally tough."

They always said that a fighter's opinion of a fighter wasn't worth the breath it took to place it on record, but coming from Wolgast, who was never given to picking and choosing, such a tribute to Tommy is worth pondering over.

RECORD RURAL ROUTE SERVICE

One of the warmest advocates of the motorcycle for rural free delivery work is Arthur H. Rasmussen, a carrier of Portland, Oregon. Mr. Rasmussen says he has used his motorcycle on all kinds of roads in all kinds of weather and that the motor is in first-class condition and on the job at all times. "I have an exceptionally hard route," says Mr. Rasmussen, "serving 450 boxes and averaging 300 stops a day. I carry a load of mail on my machine at all times, but it does not affect the power in the least or cause any extra strain on the frame."

HUNTERS RIDE MOTORCYCLES

Fred G Walters of Warren, Pa., is an enthusiastic huntsman. He is also a motorcyclist and rides his two-wheeler on many hunting trips. In order that his dogs will not be tired out when they reach the hunting grounds, Walters has attached a small platform to the rear of his motorcycle on which the dogs ride. And they seem to enjoy the sport as much as their master.

Another hunter who rides his motorcycle in search of game is Robert Stubbs of Birmingham, Ala. Mr. Stubbs takes his dog in a sidecar attachment, in which he likewise carries all his hunting paraphernalia. Mr. Stubbs' son frequently accompanies him, also riding in the sidecar.

HELPS FRESH AIR CAMP

For a number of years, the Moody Fresh Air camp at Chicago, Ill. has been giving healthy and happy summer vacations to hundreds of Chicago children. This summer the work of the camp has been greatly facilitated by the use of a motorcycle. "Of course the efficiency is greatly increased by being able to get about on a motorcycle instead of having to depend on street cars," says Mrs. A. H. Camp, secretary of the camp. "We are delighted with the service which the machine is giving. In a big city like Chicago the motorcycle more than pays for itself in a month's traveling."

AIDS FOOTBALL GAME

Motorcycles saved the day at the recent Purdue-Wisconsin football game, at least so far as the outside world was concerned. The Lafayette (Ind.) athletic field, where the game was played, has no telephone or telegraph connections. However, a 5 minute motorcycle service was established between the field and the city in order that news of the progress of the game might be published.

UNDERPINNING NECESSARY AT NEW STRATTON BLOCK

The work of underpinning the wall of the building on the north side of the proposed new Stratton estate building at Tejon and Huerfano streets has been awarded to J. M. Souders. The underpinning must be done before the foundation for the new building can be laid, as the walls of the new building will go to a depth of 13 feet below the street level, or about five feet below the level of the foundation of the old building. The underpinning will be done with brick. Souders will also lay the foundation for the piers of the new building along that side. Dannevik and Currie will superintend the construction of the building. The brick for the structure will be bought in this city and local firms will be given the preference in all materials wherever possible.

MARRIAGE LICENSE ORDERED CANCELED

County Clerk E. C. Shelden yesterday canceled the marriage license of Perry M. Harvey and Lettie Crownell which was issued November 18. Harvey at that time lacked 50 cents in having enough money to pay for the license and the paper was held for him to obtain the money. The license was never called for and Mr. Shelden has decided that the people have changed their minds.

KANSAS CITY LAUNCHES WAR ON PRICE OF EGGS

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 3.—Completion of a plan whereby Kansas City consumers may get their eggs direct from the country merchant at a saving of 11 cents on the dozen, was announced today by Mrs. Willard Q. Church, president of the Kansas City Housewives league.

"An express company," said Mrs. Church, "has given me a list of about 300 country merchants in Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska. They have agreed to furnish strictly fresh eggs directly to consumers for 30 cents a dozen plus 5 cents for the express charges and the cost of the container."

CZAR NICHOLAS OF RUSSIA

Who looks with favor upon the proposed appointment of Henry L. Pindell of Peoria, Ill., to the post of United States ambassador to Russia. The story that Pindell, who was the "original Wilson man in Illinois," had received an offer of the appointment as a reward for his services on the condition that he would resign the post at the expiration of one year, has been given considerable attention in Russia. This fact is said to have caused the Russian emperor to announce that he had no objection to the appointment of Pindell.
